Farm Strikers Look To Ottawa For Word On Demands For Parity

EDMONTON (CP)—More than 50,000 prairie farmers staging a delivery strike of all farm produce eagerly awaited word from federal authorities today on their demands for parity prices as reports from Saskatchewan told of a threatened meat shortage and tight picket lines in Alberta continued to choke off livestock and dairy products.

The return of Agriculture Minister Gardiner to Ottawa from a food conference in Europe led an announcement would be made shortly on the federal government's attitude toward the strike.

Meanwhile as the 30-day delivery strike by more than 20,000 members of the Alberta Farmers' Union moved into its 17th day, union headquarters in Edmonton began dispatching ballots to more than 800 locals throughout the province. The ballots ask farmers if they wish to continue the strike to force federal recognition of their demands for a fact-finding board to set parity between farm costs and returns beyond the 30-day time limit.

A.F.U. officials said they were confident the farmers would vote to continue the strike if their demands were not met.

Shortages of cream, milk, live-stock and eggs were reported from many Alberta points today, with restaurants and butcher shops for want of supplies at a few centres. Saturday farmers in the Cochrane district voted to ask Prime Minister King to set up the requested board.

Livestock receipts have dropped 35 to 50 per cent in the province as a whole, forcing the laying off of 250 men by packing plants in Regina, Saskatoon and Prince Albert. Another 150 are expected to be laid off this week.

Effect of the strike has been felt mainly in the northern sections of both provinces, where both the A.F.U., in Alberta, and the U.F.C. are most strongly supported. Deliveries to northern Saskatchewan creameries have dropped 10 to 20 per cent. In northern Alberta 27 of 35 creameries have been forced to close down.

Labor Peace Needed To Regain Ground In Canada, Says Howe

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Reconstruction Minister Howe said today Canada is at the crossroads between stability and inflation. Addressing the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada convention, he said immediate restoration of industrial peace could repair strike damage, but continued interference with production would have a disastrous effect.

"The lost ground can be recovered provided industrial peace can be restored without too much delay," he said. "The home market is still with us and export markets, lost temporarily, can be recovered. Surely it has been amply demonstrated that the legitimate objectives of labor can be gained more effectively by resort to government machinery for the adjustment of wages, rather than by stoppages of production."

AT CROSSROADS

"Canada stands at the crossroads. Either our price stabilization policy will fail, and the boom and bust periods that we had planned to avoid will take place, or stability will win out... until demand and supply can be brought into balance."

"This Congress has amply demonstrated its wish for maintenance of price control. Your continuing support on the side of stability will be a great contribution to a worthwhile cause."

Mr. Howe opened his address with a note of congratulation to the T.C.L. for not participating in the current wave of strikes. "At a time when the reconstruction program is in process of being wrecked by protracted strikes in our industries, it is good to recall that those present here are taking no part in current work stoppages," he said. "There has been full co-operation between your membership and the government throughout the reconstruction period, for which I am duly thankful."

"It would be wrong to get the impression that the strikes have delivered a knock-out blow to the economic system," he said. "But make no mistake, the strikes have shaken the system for the moment. Nearly every strike hit some nerve centre, some key industry."

The economic structure had been hit by strikers on both sides of the border affecting coal, shipping, lumber, steel and other metals.

U.B.C.M. Favors Parking Meters

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS (Special)—The Victoria, resolution asking for an amendment to the Municipalities Act so that municipal councils may have the power to install parking meters passed the opening session of the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention at Harrison Hot Springs today.

The Victoria-sponsored resolution asking that electricians be licensed and regulated, and one asking for amendment to the Superannuation Act which will give the widow of an employee who dies a better pension, also were passed.

Co-operation Sought For Pat Bay Highway

Robert W. Mayhew, Victoria M.P. and parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley, and Mrs. Nancy Hodges, Victoria M.L.A., today discussed with Premier John Hart the possibility of the provincial government co-operating with the federal and municipal governments in the building of an express highway to link Victoria with the Patricia Bay airport.

No decision was reached at the meeting held in Premier Hart's office.

While search for the missing Belgian airliner was under way in Newfoundland, mass funeral services for 20 of the 21 R.C.A.F. personnel who died in the crash of their Dakota plane were held at Estevan, Sask. Seven trucks carried the flag-draped caskets in the funeral cortege, which was four miles long. Among the 150 members of the R.C.A.F. funeral party taken to Estevan by special train from Winnipeg was Air Vice-Marshal K. M. Guthrie, O.C. No. 2 Command, Winnipeg. The services were at Estevan Airport.

New U.S. Secretary Of Commerce Friend Of Great Britain; Also Knows Russia

WASHINGTON (AP)—W. Averell Harriman's addition to President Truman's official family edged it farther away today from domestic issue views espoused by Henry Wallace and united it on policy toward Russia.

The present Ambassador to Britain, named by Mr. Truman to replace Mr. Wallace as Secretary of Commerce, is widely credited, in fact, with having had a major hand in framing the present policy of firmness toward the Russians.

It was Mr. Wallace's public disagreement with this policy which led the President to dismiss him from the cabinet last Friday. Mr. Harriman gained his ideas of how to deal with the Russians first in handling lend-lease aid to them and later in more than two years as Ambassador at Moscow. In personal relations, those ideas worked. He was highly popular.

Politically, the new Secretary-designate, is, like Mr. Wallace, a Republican turned New Dealer. Now 55, Mr. Harriman was born to wealth and became a Wall Street banker.

With the appointment Mr. Truman now has a cabinet almost entirely of his own selection. Navy Secretary Forrestal, appointed to the cabinet May 10, 1944, on the death of Frank Knox, is the only remaining cabinet appointee of the late President Roosevelt.

In the changes, the general appraisal among politicians is that the cabinet's political complexion has shifted to the right a bit from what President Roosevelt used to call the "left of centre" course of his administration.

The White House announced the Harriman appointment Sunday under circumstances which indicated Mr. Truman was of a mind to make a replacement and close out the whole Wallace incident as quickly as possible.

There was no immediate word as to when Mr. Harriman actually would assume his duties. Because it is a recess appointment (made when Congress is not in session), he can take over without waiting for the Senate to approve his selection.

A formal nomination will have to be submitted when Congress meets.

Initial comment from legislators was uniformly favorable.

RESENTMENT GOES

LONDON (AP)—The first British press comment on President Truman's announcement that he would name W. Averell Harriman as Secretary of Commerce indicated today that the appointment would wipe out any lingering resentment here arising from Henry A. Wallace's references to "British imperialism."

The Washington announcement came too late for publication by morning newspapers, but a background article distributed by the British Press Association, serving all British newspapers, described Harriman, now U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain, as "always a very close friend of Britain."

He did not mention Russia—the only foreign power near Antung—nor did he mention whether he thought the "funnel" was already in operation or merely a future possibility. Thus far there has been no evidence that Russians have given any direct aid to the Chinese Reds.

The Mukden correspondent of the independent newspaper Hsin Min Pao reported that Gen. Chen Cheng, fresh from a conference with Chiang Kai-shek, had assigned the 6th and 52nd government armies to attack Antung, the government spokesman here said that Antung, 125 miles south-east of Mukden, menaced both Mukden and Changchou, the capital, so long as it remained in Communist hands.

FIGHT NEAR FUSHUN

Bitter fighting also was reported near Fushun, mining centre only 25 miles east of Mukden, but other areas in Manchuria were quiet.

Communist peace negotiator Chou En-lai meanwhile sent from Shanghai a new written demand that Gen. George C. Marshall's "Committee of Three" be resurrected to attempt to halt hostilities. The committee's efforts to reach a workable truce last winter failed.

There were fresh reports from sources close to Marshall, this time that the U.S. mediator might give up his 10 months' struggle for peace and go home.

Oppose Soviet Demand For Report On Troops

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia's demand for information on Allied troop dispositions in foreign non-enemy states faced vigorous British and United States opposition today in the United Nations' Security Council. As the delegates prepared to meet at noon P.D.T. to take up this new issue, both United States delegate Herschel V. Johnson and British delegate Sir Alexander Cadogan were reported ready to challenge Russia's right to demand such information under the U.N. charter.

Informed quarters said both would ask the Council to refuse to place the Soviet demand on its agenda on the ground that such a question did not come within the jurisdiction of the Council unless coupled with a charge that peace was endangered or breached.

Mr. Johnson was reported ready to ask Soviet delegate Gromyko two questions: What was Russia's motive in raising the issue in the Council and, secondly, under what article of the charter was the action taken?

Mr. Gromyko first brought the question up Aug. 30, but it was sidetracked by the Soviet Ukraine's charges that Greece, aided by the presence of British troops in Greece, was threatening peace in the Balkans. The Greek case was dropped Friday, opening the way for the new issue.

The main countries involved in the Russian demand were China and Iceland, where U.S. forces are stationed, and Iraq, Egypt, Greece and Trans-Jordan, where British troops still are located.

Rescue Squad To Work In Future B.C. Air Accidents

Completely equipped for rescue work on mountains, glaciers or in rough wooded country, a mountain search and rescue crew has been organized on an inter-service basis in British Columbia and stands ready to try to cut casualties in flying accidents in the mountainous wilds of the province.

Eighteen men, 17 from the army and one from the R.C.A.F., have completed a stiff course in mountain-climbing and rescue work which is expected to pay dividends in saved lives when future emergencies arise, according to an announcement from Western Command Headquarters.

The rescue squad is led by Maj. John Cade, a member of the Alpine Club of Canada, and Lieut. George Webb, who spent several years training in mountain warfare.

The R.C.A.F. and navy also are included in a plan to help locate wrecked aircraft or lost individuals and to take the rescue crew to the scene of an accident in the shortest possible time. Two members of the crew are qualified parachutists, and will enter wild country by this method if necessary.

Table Salt Joins Short Supply List

And now it's table salt that is joining the "under the counter" lengthening list of short supply items to plague the unhappy housewife who is still expected to serve palatable meals regardless.

For the past month table salt has been increasingly difficult to obtain as the main source of Victoria's supply, Windsor, is strike-beset.

Some of the local wholesalers and firms are doing their best to contact other factories in the hopes of getting sufficient salt with which to carry on but with comparatively little success so far.

Students Jam Traffic

VANCOUVER (CP)—Traffic jams blocked travel to the University of British Columbia today as fall term lectures got under way for the record student enrollment of nearly 9,000 students and buses were packed, automobiles moved bumper to bumper and others plodded along sidewalks leading to college buildings.

Government Wins Legal War Against Squatters In London

LONDON (Reuter)—The government has won its legal battle against the "squatters," London families seeking accommodation who invaded and installed themselves in several blocks of luxury flats in London. But the British Communists who helped to organize the squatters are claiming a moral victory, and point to the fact that the government has ordered the speeding up of the release for housing of buildings requisitioned in wartime.

The Communists maintain the "squatter" campaign forced the government to give fresh and urgent consideration to the housing problem, that all over the country local councils have been stirred to action, and that the support accorded the squatters by the Labor movement and in the trade unions demonstrated their action had wide public sympathy. Now the Communists are preparing for the next step—an intensive campaign concentrated in the labor and trades union movements, to maintain pressure on the government.

The Communists say that out of 250,000 building workers in the London area, only 42,000 are engaged on building permanent houses. The rest are on repair work, much of which, the Communists state, is not essential. As a result of the squatter campaign, the Communists have been given more publicity in national press than for a time, but it is too early to say whether they have made real political headway. The don municipal elections, November may provide a c

C.C.L. President Wants All Canadian Labor In 1 Group

TORONTO (CP) — A. R. Mosher, President of the Canadian Congress of Labor, today appealed for labor unity in an address at the congress convention.

Mr. Mosher, in his presidential address, said much of the weakness in the Canadian labor movement was due to the existence of more than one central body and such divisions were "wholly unwarranted."

(Canada's other major labor organization is the Trades and Labor Congress.)

In reference to political relations, he said that, while it was essential for labor to take an interest in political affairs, it "must never become subservient to any political party, even its own." He supported the C.C.F. as the party which most closely approached labor's objectives.

"It is now regarded throughout the Dominion as providing almost the only leadership for the workers of the nation, as champion of labor's cause and as the fighter of its battles, not only for better wages and working conditions but for social legislation and other achievements," he said.

The growth which unions enjoyed during the war had been maintained, but there remained large numbers of Canadian workers who should be organized.

CHIEF DEBATES

The convention of the C.C.L.'s sixth annual meeting — was opened today with the prospect that chief issues for consideration would be its drive for higher wages and shorter hours in industry, demands that the federal government relax wage controls and establish a national labor code and the question of political affiliation with the C.C.F.

More than 700 delegates registered before today's brief opening session at which greetings were brought to the convention by Controller David Balfour, representing Mayor Saunders and the city; Right Rev. E. M. Brennan, on behalf of Cardinal James McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto; Canon C. W. Judd, social service secretary of the Church of England in Canada and president of the Christian Social Service Council of Canada; and Elroy Robson, president of the Toronto Labor Council, a C.C.L. affiliate.

President Mosher stated preparations had been made for 700 delegates, but it was found that many more registered.

Iranian Rebels Capture Villages

TEHRAN (AP) — Rebellious nomad tribesmen have captured several Persian Gulf villages and launched repeated attacks on Bushire, one of the largest ports on the Iranian coast, the newspaper Keyhan reported today.

Reque and Daylam were listed among the towns which have fallen to the warring tribes, the Dashestan and Hayat-dayod. Bushire is one of the largest outlets for Iranian goods, cotton, carpets, silk, tobacco and hides, in world commerce.

The Bushire garrison is still resisting the tribal assaults, Keyhan said, and Premier Ahmed Qavam's government has dispatched strong troop reinforcements to the area.

Jewish Refugees Leap From Ships In Attempt To Land

JERUSALEM (AP) — Nearly 100 Jewish refugees on the illegal immigrant ship Palmakh leaped overboard and tried to swim ashore at Haifa today. They were rounded up within two hours by the British army and fleet.

Some 800 to 900 Jews attempted to slip into Palestine aboard the 200-ton schooner Sunday, but were stopped by British naval ships in a fight at sea that cost one of them his life. The army and navy planned to transfer them to H.M.S. Empire Heywood this afternoon for deportation to Cyprus.

Army officers tried to persuade the refugees aboard the Palmakh to send a delegation to talk over arrangements for their transshipment. They refused and almost 100 attempted a desperate dash for the promised land.

SOME WERE TOWED — Police and naval launches picked up swimmers between the ship and shore, and six British soldiers dived into the water, fastened ropes to some of the swimmers and towed them to the launches.

All Jewish shops were closed in Haifa this morning and two rabbis led a procession in protest against a British refusal to turn over the body of the refugee killed when a boarding party forced its way onto the Palmakh early Sunday.

British soldiers at a roadblock fired over the heads of the marchers to stop them. The crowd then broke up at the urging of moderate leaders. Later Haifa was reported quieter, but troops still cordoned off the port area.

Jews are required by their religion to bury their dead within 24 hours. The 24 hours were up this morning for the dead immigrant.

PRESENT PLAN

LONDON (CP) — A Jewish plan for Palestine will be submitted informally to the London conference on the Holy Land, a Jewish Agency spokesman said today. He said the Jews would urge Britain to implement the principle of partition embodied in the 1937 report of the Peel Commission and also give the Jews the Negev or south country area. Under the British-U.S. experts' recommendation for partition, submitted this year, the Negev area would be set aside as British-controlled area.

No Evidence Found Of German Attempt To Invade Britain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The War Department said today that so far as could be discovered from the mass of secret Nazi war documents, no German attempt to invade England ever was made.

A War Department official said no evidence had been found to support reports — current both before and immediately after the Allied invasion of Normandy in June, 1944 — that Hitler had made an abortive attempt to send a fleet of invasion barges to England.

These reports declared approximately 50,000 German troops were killed when the R.A.F. swooped down on the would-be invaders, dumped oil on the sea and destroyed the armada with flaming death.

Purported eyewitness corroboration of these reports, written by British newspapermen after the Normandy invasion and quoting French and Belgium pursues who claimed to have treated some of the few German survivors, was recalled in connection with the War Department's release of a volume of Nazi documents seized after the surrender of Germany.

BRITISH WON

A War Department official told a reporter, however, he doubted that the Germans ever attempted to stage a cross-channel coup. He noted that by February, 1941, the R.A.F. already had won The Battle of Britain and that Hitler realized he could not undertake an invasion without control of England's skies.

Another document in the War Department's volume, entitled "Nazi Conspiracy and Aggression," indicated Hitler had decided as early as Dec. 5, 1940, to strike against Russia.

On that date — little more than a year after the signing of the Moscow-Berlin 10-year pact of non-aggression — the chief of the German general staff, Col. Gen. Franz Halder, made a "report to the Fuehrer" on "planned operations in the east" and noted that Russia's main war industrial centres were in the Ukraine, in Moscow and in Leningrad.

Hitler struck into the U.S.S.R. on June 22, 1941.

Proposed High School In Duncan Would Be Modern, Cost $500,000

DUNCAN—A memorandum presented to the Duncan School Board by Trustee W. Spencer of the buildings committee, indicates that the proposed new junior-high school for the district may cost $500,000 and provide accommodation for 800 students.
The memorandum is being forwarded to H. Savage, Victoria, the board's architect, as a basis for the preparation of sketch plans of the proposed structure.
As envisioned in the memorandum, the school would be a concrete, two-story building, with a basement 18 inches below ground level, and a sloping roof. It would contain 26 classrooms, a gymnasium, an auditorium capable of seating 600, a cafeteria capable of serving 300, a number of offices and small rooms and a laboratory.
"It was explained that the estimated cost of $500,000 might be decreased, when building materials become more plentiful, and also that available building funds and the bearing of half the cost by the provincial government would reduce the burden on the taxpayer."
Trustee W. J. Long, chairman of the school board, declared when the memorandum was received that this was the district's opportunity to obtain the latest in modern schools at the lowest possible figure.

Port Alberni Seeks Modern Pied Piper

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—Port Alberni is looking for a Pied Piper.
The city council has decided that something must be done to rid the city of rats that are becoming a serious menace.
During a council meeting one alderman suggested that a bounty be placed on the rodents, and that a price be set to be paid for every rat killed.
"Why that would break the city," commented Mayor W. C. Hamilton.
The council finally decided to request advice of the health department on the proper method of combating the rats.

Grape, Seed Harvest Under Way On Farms Of Vancouver Island

Final fortnightly horticultural news letter of the provincial agriculture department today reported as of last week grapes were beginning to size and color and early apples were being cleaned up in orchards of Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands.
Late varieties of apples were sizing and beginning to show much color since rain, the report said, while Bosc and Conference pears were ready for harvesting. Italian prunes were about all harvested, the letter reported.
"Vegetables are in fair supply," the letter said. Bulbs are being planted. Harvesting of flower and vegetables seeds progresses.
"Threshing of grain crops continues with average yields. Pastures are showing some improvement."
In the Salmon Arm area, the report said, main crop potatoes were being dug while No. 1 onions were in good volume and the quality was good.
In the northern Okanagan the report said movement of fresh vegetables to market had been slowed up somewhat and canneries were still running very short of tomato supplies for processing.
While tomatoes were being delivered to canneries in the Kelowna area, the tonnage was disappointing, the department said.
In the Penticton district, the report said, orchards generally were in good condition, moisture supplies so far having been adequate. Codling moth has not caused nearly as much damage as last year, and damage from mites has been lighter than usual.

Courtenay Council Seeks More Power Over Store Hours

COURTENAY—The Courtenay City Council delegation is taking to the convention of British Columbia municipalities a resolution urging the provincial government to amend the Shops Regulation and Weekly Half Holiday Act to give much greater discretion to municipal councils in fixing hours of business.
Members of the Courtenay council have expressed the opinion that the general public is now seriously inconvenienced in obtaining goods and services by curtailment of hours of business by some groups of merchants, and that the municipalities have insufficient power to remedy the situation.

The entertainments will take place on the third Monday of each month.

Tourist President Hits Liquor Laws

VANCOUVER (CP)—M. Leo Sweeney, president of the Vancouver Tourist Association, is probably one of British Columbia's greatest boosters, but he admits there is "room for improvement."
His one kick is about the Pacific Coast province's liquor system.
On his return from a 28-day business trip through Canada and the United States, Mr. Sweeney commented that the British Columbia liquor system "is one of the most antiquated I've seen anywhere."
"In New York a couple of businessmen who want to relax a bit at the end of a hard day's work walk into a friendly, civilized bar or cocktail lounge and have two or three drinks," he said. "Then they go home, and chances are they stay there. They don't have to stand in line and buy a whole crock which they would then feel they'd better 'kill,' although all they really wanted was a snifter before dinner."

Gypsies' Queen Dies

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gypsies from across the United States gathered Sunday night, their colorful costumes replaced by sombre black. They came to pay final tribute to their dead Queen Marta, 44-year-old wife of George Evans, King of the Evans tribe, one of the largest and best-known gypsy groups in America.
Queen Marta, who died Saturday, lay in state in a candle-lit mahogany coffin at a funeral home where some 30 families, adults and children, sat quietly or talked in whispers before a Russian Orthodox memorial service. Burial was made today.
The queen was counsellor to the tribe in matters of marriage and child-rearing.

Germans Froze Prisoners In Tests To Aid Fliers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nazi experiments in freezing human beings in a study of "the behavior of organisms at great heights" were cited by the United States War Department Saturday in releasing a volume of secret documents seized after the conquest of Germany.
One of the documents, written by a German air force physician, Dr. S. Rascher, to Gestapo Chief Himmler, incongruously discussed the cold-blooded experiments after first thanking Himmler for sending "flowers on the birth of my second son."
In a letter dated Feb. 17, 1943, Dr. Rascher wrote to Himmler that "up to now" he had "cooled off" about 30 human guinea pigs taken from concentration camps, by stripping them and exposing them to winter air for nine to 14 hours until their body temperatures fell as low as 27 degrees centigrade.
"After one hour, I put these subjects in a hot bath," the letter said. "Every single patient was completely warmed up within one hour at most, though some of them had their hands and feet frozen white."
Dr. Rascher also reported on subjecting human beings to ice baths with water reduced to temperatures ranging from 12 degrees to 25 degrees and the patients strapped in rubber life jackets to prevent submerging. These tests were conducted at the notorious Dachau Concentration Camp.
The report concluded that when the body temperature dropped to 28 degrees the victims invariably died.

Himmler said the experiments were needed to learn how to combat the conditions encountered by high-flying German bombers and "frost injuries" suffered by Nazi troops fighting on the winter-froze Russian front.
Most of the documents were used in the prosecution of Germany's top war criminals now awaiting the verdict at Nuremberg.

STILL GOING STRONG
DOWN IN KENTVILLE, N.S., LAST Friday night Finance Minister Isley had something to say in reply to suggestions that his name was high up on the list of those eligible to succeed Mr. Mackenzie King as leader of the Liberal Party. But the guardian of the national till gave away no secrets; his information, however, led him to believe that his chief was in excellent health, was doing a magnificent job, was one of the world's great leaders, and would probably "be in there pitching" for at least a few years longer.

Since Mr. King announced that he did not intend to lead his party through another general election—contingent, presumably, upon the government retaining its control of Parliament for its normal term—the crystal gazers at the national capital have been busy. There is obviously much potential leadership in the present cabinet. But the loyalty of each member to his chief is unquestioned. Opposition forces may be indulging in a good deal of wishful thinking; that is their privilege. Mr. Isley's confident and justified assurance that the Prime Minister is still "doing a magnificent job" will be challenged by none who understand the significance of the record.

Naturally enough the recent changes which Mr. King has made in the nation's diplomatic service have stimulated speculation. To the general public these may appear to be routine moves. The fact nevertheless remains that the Prime Minister, noted for his ability to train his political eye on distant horizons, has not overlooked leadership material in the Department of External Affairs—over whose important business he had presided with one pause since 1921. The translation of Hon. Lester B. Pearson from his ambassadorial post in Washington to that of Under-Secretary of State at Ottawa, for instance, may or may not indicate what Mr. King thinks about a young man who has proved his mettle in many fields.

All this, of course, is speculation. The Prime Minister keeps his own counsel well. The rank and file of the Liberal Party will be quite content for the time being to take Mr. Isley's version of Mr. King's present role as good enough. And this is not the time for a change on the bridge of Canada's ship of state. Only a trifle more than a year has elapsed since the electorate endorsed the government—a rarity in treatment of administrations that have gone through a long and costly war.

COUNTER-PUNCHING

THE WORLD MIGHT BE CONSIDERABLY closer to abiding peace if Russia's demand for information on Allied troop dispositions in foreign non-enemy states could bring forth not only the answer the U.S.S.R. seeks, but with it a statement from the Soviets regarding the location and operations of their own forces in different parts of the world today. As conditions are, however, the question raised before the Security Council appears naive in the extreme.

In most quarters the query will be viewed as another example of diplomatic counter-punching—an offensive launched as a defence against inquiry into what goes on behind "the iron curtain." Several technicalities enter into the issue. Mr. Herschel V. Johnson, representing the United States on the Council, asks Russia's motive in requesting the information and would also like to know under what clause in the Charter the action is taken. Sir Alexander Cadogan, for Britain, is also ready to challenge the U.S.S.R.'s right to demand such data.

Justification for the position taken by Russia, of course, rests upon that nation's ability to prove that the presence of Anglo-American forces on alien soil threatens peace. But that point becomes a matter for extreme difference of opinion. Obviously one faction sees them as the guardians of law and order, while the opposite interests see them as arbitrary checks against infiltration by a rival ideology. Until a greater measure of reconciliation can be effected between the western democracies and Russia, that point cannot be eliminated. In the meantime, does the U.S.S.R. come into court with clean hands when it demands this information on troop dispositions?

THE NEW SECRETARY

FIRST AS SPECIAL DEFENCE LIAISON officer in 1941, as ambassador to the Soviet Union in 1943, and at present minister to the Court of St. James's, Mr. William Averell Harriman—who has succeeded Mr. Henry Wallace as United States Secretary of Commerce—is well versed in the ways of diplomacy and numbers the leading statesmen of the world among his intimate friends. At the moment he is attending the Peace Conference in Paris as an assistant to Secretary of State James Byrnes; it is presumed he will remain in the French capital until these important deliberations are concluded.

How much or how little Mr. Harriman has in common, fundamentally, with his predecessor at the Department of Commerce in Washington already is the basis of comment in the rival political camps in the United States. Both enjoyed the confidence of the late President Roosevelt—Mr. Wallace for his radical liberalism and Mr. Harriman, presumably, for his more middle-of-the-road concept of national policy. The change at the White House and the advent of peace with its manifold complexities, however, not to mention the forthcoming Congressional elections, have obviously influenced the pattern of political "reconstruction" in certain important particulars. For it can be taken for granted that millionaire Harriman would require a good deal of persuasion, for example, to swallow all the philosophy which Mr. Wallace compressed into his 1942 version of the "Century of the Common Man."

Mr. Truman's choice of Mr. Harriman for the Commerce Secretaryship, of course, bears no significant relationship to foreign policy. It simply means that Mr. Harriman agrees with the procedures pursued by Mr. Byrnes in Paris—which the President has declared reflect the views of the administration—and that cabinet harmony is no longer open to question. Those elements of the public which incline politically more to the right of centre than to the left will be pleased with the new appointment. The influence they wielded in the Democratic Party and with Mr. Roosevelt was responsible for the elimination of Mr. Wallace for re-nomination as Vice-President in 1944. Political bills have a knack of turning up at the most inopportune times.

WHOSE WORLD?

ALL WILL AGREE WITH FORMER United States Secretary of Commerce Wallace in his contention that "winning the peace is more important than high public office" and any consideration of party politics. It is also true that the manner in which the peace is established will determine not "whether we live in 'one world' or 'two worlds'—but whether we live at all."

Unfortunately for Mr. Wallace's general thesis, however, is the fact that his solicitude for Russia—his appeal against "getting tough" with her—does not recognize that the "tough" attitude at all international conferences since the surrender of the common enemy has originated in Moscow. In other words, the Soviet Union approves the design for "One World" so long as it will revolve on a Communistic axis.

A PEOPLE'S FIGHT

IN CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES, men whose duties are vitally connected with the fight against inflation have again emphasized the fact that the battle can only be won by the people. To the Laurier Club in Victoria last week Mr. R. W. Mayhew, M.P., parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Isley, underscored the point as he called upon citizens throughout the nation to check runaway prices by abstaining from unnecessary buying and avoiding at all costs the black market.

In the United States, Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, recently appointed chairman of the advisory council set up under the Full Employment Act, has admitted his apprehensions over a possible depression. As the Washington Post points out, the stress that he puts on good management as a preventive of the "boom-and-bust" cycle suggests that he bases his hopes for the avoidance of the hungry days that must follow inflation chiefly on the people themselves, and on the business and labor leaders who can do so much to influence public opinion. The Post, following up the argument, notes the good manager, whether he happens to be a business executive or head of a labor group, is a man who plans his course with a view to the long-time advantage of those interests he represents. It adds:

"Such men can do a great deal to arrest or prevent unsound developments such as we (the United States) are now witnessing in the form of overrapid price increases and feverish speculative activities induced by such increases, provided the public understands and acts on the assumption that lack of restraint spells eventual disaster."

The case is succinctly presented. The ultimate responsibility rests on the people—the non-expert ordinary man and woman who is the chief sufferer from inflation and its aftermath. But there is an added duty imposed on management—to see that the average citizen understands the issue clearly.

INCREASE IN LIFE INSURANCE

THE CANADIAN LIFE INSURANCE OFFICERS Association reports that $588,800,000 worth of new life insurance policies were sold in the first half of 1946, 53 per cent higher than in the corresponding period of last year, and estimated to be a new high. Ontario led the provinces, with sales for the six months amounting to $260,333,000, followed by Quebec with $151,501,000. British Columbia was next with $43,053,000, while other provinces made up the balance.

Various reasons are given for this unusual increase in sales, the foremost being a large amount of money in the hands of the people. The short supply of commodities has left the insurance field without serious competition for the time being. Another important factor has been the increase in the number of employees' pension plans sold. These include an insurance feature with the annuity, which permits the employee an insurance policy with a very low premium.

Other factors which have been instrumental in the rise of sales have been the increased number of children's policies, and the interest shown by returning veterans in taking out insurance at the time of starting their married life. These various factors have had their effect upon the insurance companies and the public at large. More salesmen are being put into the field and are doing much to make the public insurance conscious. Herein is a solid bulwark against extremism of any kind.

Walter Lippmann

THE REACTION OF MR. WALLACE

IT MAY HELP MR. TRUMAN a bit to recall that he is not the first President who found himself with his two strongest cabinet officers seriously at odds at a moment of great international danger. President Washington had to ride out a conflict about American policy in Europe between his Secretary of State, who was Jefferson, and his Secretary of the Treasury, who was Alexander Hamilton. Like Mr. Wallace and Mr. Byrnes, they, and their followers, differed not only about foreign affairs but about internal, and then as now this deeply embittered the controversy.

"Under the dominance of Washington," says W. F. Johnson, an historian of the period, "the Cabinet was nominally a unit, but in fact there was a bitter and irreconcilable conflict of policy between its two chief members. Hamilton doubtless inclined toward Great Britain rather than France but he was above all for strict neutrality between the two. . . . Jefferson had a passionate hatred of England and was at that time indulging in blind adulation of France and especially of the French Revolution. While therefore Jefferson officially agreed to Washington's policy of neutrality, he personally opposed it. . . . This difference between Jefferson and Hamilton was carried into the public press, in a series of controversial articles of the most extreme and violent tone."

THE LESSON of history, some one who was discouraged has said, is that no one ever learns the lessons of history. Yet one lesson our own history teaches us. It is that whenever the issues of foreign policy are allowed to appear as a choice among foreign powers that are to be favored, the country becomes divided in a sterile and destructive debate, and it becomes inordinately difficult to form a constructive American policy. Rightly read, this, and not the much misunderstood passages about alliances, is the lesson which Washington sought to teach in the Farewell Address.

The eruption of Mr. Wallace is due in the last analysis to neglect of this lesson. Historians will speak of it, I imagine, as the delayed but certain reaction to the crucial events of last winter, when Mr. Byrnes took the decision to wage a diplomatic war against the expansion of the Soviet Union. This was a necessary decision, so it seems to me, but it was an exceedingly grave decision. When taken, it called for an exhaustive study of how the campaign was to be planned with good prospect of success and with the highest degree of national unity, based not on fear and hysteria but upon a reasoned conception of the American position in the world.

NOTHING WOULD have been more ill-advised than to let this campaign be inaugurated, in the eyes of the world, not in a comprehensive statement by the President but by Mr. Churchill's speech at Fulton, Missouri. That was when there were sown in this country the seeds of disunity which have now flowered in the agitation of Henry Wallace.

For while the decision to oppose the expansion of the Soviet Union was unavoidable and was right, the diplomatic policy with which the decision has been implemented was, it seems to me, superficial and improvised. It lacked what was most essential—a central strategic idea as to how, when, and with what measures, the Soviet Union could be induced and compelled to negotiate with us on the fundamental issue of the limits of their military power and of our own. The policy we have actually pursued has been one of conducting an endless series of skirmishes all around the vast periphery of the Soviet Union. This has envenomed our relations without bringing us nearer to a decisive encounter and settlement.

THE DECISION to oppose the Soviet Union was an American decision. But the diplomatic campaign has consisted merely in supporting a coalition of states which are in conflict with the Soviet Union. It was not the decision to oppose Soviet imperialism but the nature of the diplomatic policy used in opposing it that laid Mr. Byrnes open to Mr. Wallace's stinging observation "that we cannot meet it" (i.e. the Russian "challenge") "as Hitler tried to by an anti-comintern alliance."

Yet I do not think that Mr. Wallace has understood the problem of how we are to deal with Russia. His basic fallacy, to put it in a nutshell, is that he emerges as a pacifist who supposes that Stalin and his associates can be won over by the reduction of American military power and its withdrawal as an effective force from Europe and Asia. Mr. Wallace argues that if we oppose American power to Soviet power, the only possible result will be an atomic war of annihilation. He has overlooked the fact that while a race of armaments has usually led to war, unilateral pacifism has also led to war.

THE TRUE POLICY in a situation of this kind is inherently difficult and dangerous. It is to confront power with power at a selected point where a decision is in a military sense possible, and then to use the delicate and unstable equilibrium as an opportunity to be seized for constructive and magnanimous negotiation. This is no policy for children, or for frivolous and excitable amateurs. But though the risks are great, there is no present alternative except to be sucked into a tangle of hostilities for which there is no rational and peaceable solution. TEACHER TRAINING

In a recent editorial you venture the confident assertion that this province has no inclination towards (among other things) "the craze for professional trappings with an esoteric nomenclature." But a news item of the following day mentions that Victoria now has 183 more pre-primary students than in June. Pre-primary students! What has happened to that lovely word "kindergarten" (children's garden) which has served for 120 years as a really descriptive name for the link between nursery and primary grades? Even so does esoteric nomenclature ("jargon" for short) seep drop by drop from the lush hotbeds of the higher pedagogy to the lower level of our common clay. And, despite Juliet's opinion to the contrary, there's so much in a name that a grateful public feels that it is getting something new and therefore better.

Some years ago a "top-level" educationist distilled an equally precious drop of English undefined when he publicly described that choral wizard, Sir Hugh Robertson, as "a subject-matter specialist." But there are rich beds of esoteric flowers blushing unseen in, e.g., the 653 six-by-ten-inch pages (weighing about 2½ pounds) of the Program of Studies for Junior High Schools (Grade 7-9), 1936 edition. The contents of this ponderous work are no doubt as attractive to the esoteric reader as its paper cover, which is of a dull, brick red. Before getting down to cases, the editor sets forth the Aims and Philosophy of Education in British Columbia. This statement says much that every teacher knows or should know; but how? and, occasionally, why? Thus:

"The curriculum consists of significant aspects of experience chosen to achieve goals implicit in the statement which appears above of the social and individual purposes of education. Experience may be direct or may be vicarious. It is the aim of organized education that learners should experience in desirable outcomes."

Subject-matter is not educative in and of itself, but only as it is made meaningful to the pupil. A mere outsider might say "If the pupil doesn't understand the reason, then the lesson is useless"—if indeed he thought it worth seeing, which is doubtful."

The ensuing program is crammed with "aims" and "objectives," but the chief aims of the compilers appear to have been to leave nothing unsaid while saying nothing whatever to the ordinary citizen. Still, they do unbend occasionally, as, e.g., when they set forth simple problems in arithmetic with detailed alternative solutions (this, mind you, for the benefit of normal and university graduates).

GERMANY'S FUTURE

A Germany whose resources can be made to serve the needs of her neighbors can be obtained by putting the Ruhr under an international commission which would regulate the distribution of its output and keep a strict guard over all the key industries and the imports of raw and semi-finished material. A pauper Germany or a Germany with potential strength would be a danger to Europe. A weak France would be no less of a calamity. Britain should treat France in all matters of finance and trade with the generosity due both to her misfortunes and to the special ties of sympathy that should unite the two peoples. — Manchester Guardian.

John Anderson Captures Trophy At Blind Fair

The silver cup trophy of the Victoria Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Institute for the Blind went to John Anderson, who captured top honors at the seventh annual garden competition for the sightless people of Victoria, Saturday.

The exhibition, which was held at the City Market, Cormorant Street, was a huge success, and within two hours all items had been sold from the stalls. Proceeds from the exhibition will be donated by the sightless people to the Canadian Save the Children Fund.

Mrs. T. M. Knox was general convener, assisted by Mrs. Charles King and Mrs. T. W. Benning.

Potato and flower exhibits were judged by E. W. White, of the provincial Department of Agriculture, while bread entries were judged by Mrs. M. A. Foulds, B.C. Electric Home Service Department.

Winners in the potato contest were as follows: First prize, John Anderson; second, Martin Faa; third, Mrs. Sarah E. King; fourth, Edna Porter, and fifth, Ed Turner, who also got special mention for apples.

First prize for gladioli went to Miss Edna Porter, while Mrs. Elizabeth took second place.

Mrs. Elizabeth Watling won first prize for bread. Miss Alice Carr was awarded second prize, and third went to Miss Ada Hicks.

Elders competitor in the bread contest was 93-year-old Mrs. L. S. Luscombe, who received special mention.

Big Attendance At Flower Show

One of the best attendances ever recorded at a show of its kind was seen at the Victoria Horticultural Society's annual fall chrysanthemum exhibition at the Crystal Garden Friday and Saturday. In the two days nearly 1,500 visitors viewed the exhibits.

The show concluded with an auction sale of blooms on exhibition. There were close to 250 entries.

A. F. Saunders took top honors winning 25 first prizes and three seconds. Thomas Chattert was second and Mrs. Angus McKay was third.

Canned Salmon Back In Retail Stores

Five hundred thousand cases of canned salmon, near the estimated prewar level of 530,000 cases and an increase of 196,000 cases over the 1945 total, should retail stores in October or November for sale in Canada, War-time Prices and Trade Board announces.

The figures are for cases holding 48 one-pound tins on 96 half-pound tins.

Autumn Roses Flourish Here

Five-year-old Jackie Gordon appreciates the fragrance and beauty of roses in full bloom at Beacon Hill Park as do hundreds of other visitors these fine Indian summer days. The rose garden near the bear pen is a mass of color and hundreds of buds on dozens of different varieties of the flower are ready to burst their petals under the sun. Other flower beds in various sections of the park are decked out in colorful finery. Soon also there will be a new attraction for park visitors. A "scent garden" is being made opposite the cricket pitch where many varieties of sweet smelling shrubs are being planted. The young rose admirer, Jackie, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Gordon, 123 Michigan Street.

GLOBAL SURVEY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst

The International Committee for the Study of European Problems—a privately formed organization made up of prominent statesmen, diplomats, educationists and scientists of six European countries—has thrown a decidedly wet blanket on our hopes of achieving peace and unity through the United Nations.

This committee predicts failure for the U.N. in avoiding war and advocates the formation of a world federation of nations—a world state—for preserving peace. Such a federation, the advocates admit, would entail "important surrenders of national sovereignty."

One doesn't question lightly the views of such personages as Lord Beveridge, Liberal British economist; British physicist M. L. Oliphant; Robert Gillon, president of the Belgian Senate; Eduard Herriot, former French premier; and Beelaerts Van Bloekland, Dutch Minister of State. Still, it does seem that they dismiss our new peace organization without sufficient trial.

The consensus of observers has been that the U.N. was an essential steppingstone to "Utopia"—that we couldn't achieve the ideal of "one world" in a single hop.

It is equally true that things haven't gone well with the U.N., but it is equally true that few if anyone, expected a love-feast at the outset. The peace organization is being confronted with controversial issues sufficient to produce a dozen wars. "One of the grave difficulties is that of avoiding serious trespass on national sovereignties. If this is true of the U.N., how much greater would be the problem in a world state which necessarily would call for a large measure of sovereignty?

Then, too, the realignment of power in the eastern hemisphere is producing a flood of distrust and suspicion—and small wonder. The Big Three no longer are a unit as in the perilous days of the war. There are grave differences between Russia and the Western Allies. Those differences have been showing up in a big way in the U.N. and in the Paris Peace Conference.

However, it's a good sight better to have them fought out in the conference room than on the battlefield. It's the business of both the U.N. and the Peace Conference to settle arguments. That's what they were created for, and so the appearance of arguments should cause no surprise.

Grape Prices Up; Baskets Cost More

Housewives can expect to pay a somewhat higher price for grapes this year as the latest food bulletin issued by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board states that ceiling prices at all trade levels are based on an increase to the grower of 3 cents per six-quart basket.

This order covers Ontario and B.C. labrusca grapes and imported labrusca grapes. It does not apply to grapes sold to manufacturers, or to labrusca grapes grown elsewhere in Canada.

It is explained that the grape crop this year is about the same size as last year, but the cost of six-quart baskets and covers has gone up so that last year's ceilings are no longer appropriate.

Grade mark-ups are the same as last year. Transportation allowances are in all cases limited to less than carlot express, regardless of the actual method of shipment.

Abandon Plan To Bring Out 26 Bodies

Air view of wreckage of Belgian trans-Atlantic plane 22 miles from the Gander Airport in Newfoundland. This picture gives an impression of the wild country in which the big craft crashed. The eighteen survivors, all injured, were brought out of the wilderness by a helicopter.

GANDER AIRPORT, Nfld. (CP)—The 18 survivors of last Wednesday's crash of a Belgian airlines, brought here by helicopter during the week-end, were quick to pay tribute to the marvelous rescue work of a shy, modest U.S. army doctor, Capt. Samuel Martin, while the announcement was made that it would be necessary to abandon plans to remove the bodies of the 26 victims from the scene of the crash in the thick bushland 22 miles southwest of this big airbase.

Dr. Martin, a member of the first rescue party to reach the scene after traveling by seaplane and rubber dinghy, ministered to all 18 survivors, putting fractures in splints, treating burns and lacerations and administering morphine to the suffering. But he didn't have the facilities to provide all the treatment required by the more seriously injured.

TOO GREAT RISK

Meanwhile Gilder Perier, president of Sabena Airlines, operators of the airplane, said today it had been necessary to abandon plans to remove the bodies of the victims from the scene of the crash. It was decided that continued use of the helicopters would be at the risk of further loss of life.

"The job of rescuing the survivors was a risky one," said Perier. "It was worth the risk when there were lives that could be saved. Circumstances, however, have dictated our decision not to attempt to bring the bodies out and prolong the hazard to the lives of the men who have been such a great help."

Perier lost his daughter and recently-divorced wife in the crash. Eighteen survivors of the disaster, rescued by a helicopter, are now in the Sir Frederick Banting Memorial Hospital here.

A miniature cemetery with white crosses to mark the graves now is being dug near the scene by some 25 members of a ground party which arrived at the wreck Saturday. Some burials are already under way.

TO READ SERVICES

Protestant and Roman Catholic clergymen will be flown over the scene possibly Tuesday and in flight will read burial services. Perier made the announcement at a press conference at which

Bill Galgay, Newfoundland government public relations officer, disclosed that the first persons to aid the survivors were two Newfoundland trappers who reached the scene Thursday.

Galgay said one of the trappers, Ross Shea, and the other named Gillingham, reached the wreckage and counted the survivors. Then they went to a clearing and with white cloth marked out the figure "18." Rescue planes saw the trappers and were guided to the crash. The marked out figures had been noticed by aircraft, but no one could picture exactly what they meant until radio equipment in the area sent out the names and number of survivors. The trappers reached the scene ahead of the U.S. army party which went part way by flying boat and the rest of the way on foot.

MACRAE SIGNS CONTRACT

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—Conn Smythe, managing director of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, confirmed Saturday that Don MacRae, sensational leftwinger of last year's Winnipeg Monarchs, had renewed his option to sign a professional contract with the Leafs when he completes his university education next year.

Canadiens Look Good In Training Camp

MONTREAL (CP)—The regulars are setting a dizzy pace for the newcomers in the early training sessions of Canadiens, National Hockey League champions and Stanley Cup winners in the 1945-46 campaign.

You can take it from coach Dick Irvin that last year's crew is in "amazingly good condition." Dick is so pleased with the stuff his regulars have shown since they reported last week he came out flatly today and said "they look good enough to start the season right now."

The big line of Toe Blake, Maurice Richard and Elmer Lach is putting on a real show at the workouts. Blake, though 34 years old, looks as good as ever to Irvin, and Richard is handling the puck as freely as he did in the 1944-45 season when he set a record of 50 goals, along with 23 assists. On the defence big Butch Bouchard is a standout. Last year the big line started out badly and had an uphill fight all season.

Most of the boys played baseball and softball during the summer and reported in first-class shape.

Boston Red Sox, Leafs May Link

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox probably will have a working agreement with the Toronto Club of the International League next year, a Sox spokesman said Saturday.

Peter Campbell, owner of the Canadian team, conferred Friday with general manager Eddie Collins but no definite deal has been completed yet, Eddie Doherty, Sox publicity man, said.

Newsman Defends Advance Coverage Of Bikini Tests

By DON WHITEHEAD

HONOLULU (AP)—The two atomic bomb explosions at Bikini Lagoon produced, among other phenomena, the spectacle of certain scientists and military men accusing the American press of creating confusion and misunderstanding about the world's most terrible weapon.

A small group has charged publicly that the press led the people to believe that a single atomic bomb would wipe out an entire fleet, create a tidal wave, perhaps cause an earthquake, and generally whip up chaos. When these horrendous things did not occur, this group said, the people minimized the bomb and mentally wrote it off as a failure.

One observer at Bikini, speaking before a group in Honolulu, said: "The atomic tests at Bikini were put over with the publicity of a circus. When the entire test fleet failed to sink under the weight of two explosions, a mood of cynicism settled upon the world. They immediately underestimated the bomb. The layman expected the ships to fall apart, like the buildings at Nagasaki and Hiroshima. The scientific mind knew exactly what would happen."

The press is going to be beaten over the skull with a lot of statements such as these in the next few months, so it would be well for the press to prepare to defend itself.

Certainly some house-cleaning is needed, as Hanson Baldwin of the New York Times suggested, with possibly a press committee set up to guard against accreditation of those who have no right to be classified as members of the press.

But for the press to shoulder the blame for confusion and misunderstanding is an absurdity, and it is shoddy reporting to pick the press as the lone culprit.

SHOULD SHARE BLAME

The military and the scientists should step forward and acknowledge that they are equally responsible, and in my belief, more responsible for the so-called fog of confusion about the atomic bomb.

Very little had been done by Washington or the scientists to lift that fog prior to Bikini where the bomb was placed on exhibition for the first time. Of course the tests received a build-up—because the world never before was so interested in one epochal thing, a force incalculable in its future effects on mankind.

Let's examine some of the barbs thrown at the press.

(1) "When the entire test fleet failed to sink under the weight of two explosions, a mood of cynicism settled upon the world."—The man who made that statement had just returned to Hawaii from Bikini. It is doubtful if he knew what the world was thinking because of his isolation in the Marshall Islands, I doubt that any mood of cynicism settled over the world because the atomic bomb didn't wipe out the fleet. I would say the people came nearer to getting a proper perspective of this weapon.

(2) "The layman expected the ships to fall apart. The scientific mind knew exactly what would happen."

Had the scientific mind known exactly what would happen there would have been no reason for the tests. To my knowledge the press did not predict that the ships would fall apart like the buildings of Nagasaki and Hiroshima.

$7,000 Needed To Finish 'Bleak House'

VANCOUVER (CP)—University of British Columbia officials have announced they have found a house—an empty house—right here in Vancouver.

Empty for the last 21 years, the large brick structure is situated close to the university. It was built the same year as the university and was to have been used as the president's residence. However, a house for the president was erected on the campus, and the huge edifice was left unfinished.

The house, known as "Bleak House" by the students, cost $30,000 to build, and would cost an estimated $7,000 more to complete.

Dr. G. M. Shrum, head of the extension department, said the house could be made to accommodate four to five families. "However," he added, "it is in restricted area and we don't know if we can get permission to have more than one family in the place."

Gas In Cesspool Kills 3 Albertans

DRUMHELLER, Alta. (CP)—Gas at the bottom of a cesspool being dug at Nacmine, four miles west of here, claimed the lives of three men Sunday.

The victims: James T. Graham, manager of the Nacmine Hotel; Jean Baptiste Vaast, Newcastle, Alta.; John Dickey, miner of the Red River Valley and Nacmine.

Mr. Vaast was working at the bottom of a new cesspool being dug for the hotel when water and gas from the old pool rushed into the new hole. The hotel manager and Mr. Dickey were also overcome by the gas after entering the excavation in an attempt to rescue Vaast.

Rescue workers, who finally brought the bodies to the surface, also felt the effects of the gas.

Berlin School Bell Has An Allied Accent

Pictures and Text By REGINALD KENNY

BERLIN — When the school bell over Berlin University sounds its call to classes these days, it is not goosestepping college students who answer; the children of Allied occupation troops have taken over on the famous campus.

WAC Staff Sgt. Catherine Russ of Denton, Tex., a teacher of more than 20 years experience, is in command. Her charges are 136 children of seven different nationalities, most of them children of soldiers on duty with U.S. occupation forces.

A converted army ambulance is the school bus, and two army privates are assigned to Sgt. Russ as assistants. In addition, the school employs seven German women who teach classes and supervise the care of the youngsters during rest periods. Lonesome GIs stationed in Berlin often drop in to lend a helping hand.

Geography comes easy for these students. China becomes much more real when a Chinese boy is there to tell you about life in the Orient in exchange for some information about the United States' great farming region. In this multi-lingual school, a German teacher is helping four Chinese youngsters learn to speak English.

They just came to play: U.S. army privates Enos Bernhardt (left) of Nome, Alaska, and Richard Ripley of Fort Wayne, Ind., drop in at the school to spend a couple of off-duty hours by helping to entertain the youngsters. It's a question who's having the most fun.

No one "pulls rank." As far as the school is concerned the son of a colonel gets exactly the same treatment as the son of a buck private; both have to stand inspection before they eat. The school serves special rations which include ice cream and fruit juices.

Organized as a summer school, the army now plans to establish regular classes this fall modeled on schools in the U.S.

Britain, Brazil Sign Trade Agreement

LONDON (CP)—A British-Brazilian commercial agreement under which Brazil may spend a part of Argentina's sterling balance, and allowing free importation of mate (Brazilian tea) into the United Kingdom was signed Saturday.

The clause pertaining to Argentina's sterling balance was a companion measure to a provision of the British-Argentine pact signed Tuesday authorizing the transfer of $40,000,000 from Argentina's sterling credits to Brazil.

Brazil also has considerable sterling balances, which will be used for the purchase of such materials for rehabilitation and modernization of that country's industrial and transport systems as may be determined by a trade mission which Brazil agreed to send to the United Kingdom.

In one section of the accord, Brazil promises to accelerate the export of foodstuffs other than raw materials to Britain.

More Canadian Goods To Britain

OTTAWA (CP)—The Trade Department has made public a list of 34 additional Canadian products which now may be exported to the United Kingdom in limited quantities under the token shipments inaugurated by Britain earlier this year.

Included in the new list are rolled or flaked oats, certain types of table glassware, garden tools and cultivators, aluminium cooking utensils, nails and bolts, certain rubber products such as hot water bottles and powder for sporting cartridges.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from any drugstore and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.

Flavor Fans say: POST'S Bran Flakes

... important food benefits, too

• Bran you need . . . in a form you'll enjoy — that's Post's Bran Flakes!

Crisp flakes with a nut-sweet, malty-rich, delightfully-different flavor that adds new interest to breakfast. Or in delicious bran muffins — and made according to instructions on the package, they'll melt in your mouth!

Either way, you'll find Post's Bran Flakes equally delicious and effective. They provide that important roughage you need regularly to keep food wastes moving promptly. Good, sound wheat nourishment, too, because Post's Bran Flakes are made with other parts of wheat.

At your grocer's . . . and remember to insist on Post's Bran Flakes.

Misusing the Labor Council

Vancouver, New Westminster and District Labor Council is now being used to discipline working men and women and override their personal wishes in a way never envisioned by the founders of the labor movement in this city.

The high-principled aims of the Labor Council have been betrayed by certain selfish labor leaders who seek to embroil every working man and his job whenever those leaders find their policies are opposed.

What the working men involved think of the issue is apparently of no consequence.

"The Daily Province believes there was a glaring instance last week of how the Labor Council was "used," in the worst sense of the term, to drive men out of employment, force them to break a solemn working contract and defy the orders of their international president.

Here is how the Labor Council was misused:

When The Province resumed publication after six weeks' futile negotiation with the International Typographical Union, whose members were ordered out of The Province although they admitted they were perfectly satisfied with wages and working conditions; the forces in Indianapolis which engineered the printers' strike determined to wreck another honest labor chapel as the price of hitting at this newspaper.

They demanded that the Trades and Labor Council here suspend from its membership the pressmen's union of this city.

As result of this campaign in the Labor Council, 20 Daily Province pressroom employees were outvoted and forced by their own union to leave their jobs so that the pressmen's union could remain in the Labor Council.

In this case the Council was used by selfish interests to break the very principles for which trade unionism stands.

It was used to force out of employment 20 men who were perfectly satisfied with their wages and working conditions and twice voted to remain on their jobs in The Province.

It was used to force those 20 pressmen to break their contract with this newspaper, a thing The Province has never done with any union or any other group of employees.

It was used to force the pressmen to defy the express orders of their international president to stay on the job and honor their contract.

All this happened because Woodruff Randolph, president of the International Typographical Union in far-off Indianapolis, had a quarrel with two newspapers in Winnipeg and called a "revenge strike" on The Province.

Even Mr. Randolph would have to admit the issue had nothing to do with wages or working conditions, or any other consideration in which Vancouver workmen could be interested.

That is what The Province means when it says the Labor Council is now being used by selfish interests and not in the interests of working men and women.

Muriel Dyson Wed In Port Alberni

First United Church, Port Alberni, was the scene of a quiet ceremony Saturday evening which united in marriage Muriel Catherine Dyson, daughter of A. R. Driver and the late Mrs. Driver, Belmont Avenue, and George Lincoln Foulger, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Foulger of Kamloops. Rev. J. G. G. Bompas officiated.

Entering the church on the arm of her father, the bride wore a becoming gown of pale pink sheer over taffeta styled with lace yoke trimmed in rosettes, long sleeves and full skirt. Her chapel veil was caught to her head with pink rosebuds and she carried a Colonial bouquet of pastel pink carnations, sweet peas and stephanotis.

Attending the bride were her sister, Mrs. W. F. Hawes of Victoria, as matron of honor, in a blue chiffon gown, and Miss Lois Dyson, bridesmaid, in blue taffeta. They wore matching halo hats and carried Colonial bouquets of deep pink carnations.

The groom chose his brother, Frank Foulger as best man and Eric Driver as usher.

A reception followed at the home of the groom's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wright, where Mrs. George Foulger assisted in receiving the guests. Frank Foulger proposed the toast to the bride.

For a honeymoon trip to the interior of British Columbia, the bride chose a dressmaker suit of Nile green with brown accessories.

Barry Hall Weds Ontario Girl

An Ontario wedding of interest here took place at Knox Presbyterian Church, Waterloo, Sept. 7, when marriage vows were exchanged by Jessica Hope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. McArthur, 48 Mary St., Kitchener, Ont., and Barry Earl Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hall, Dominion Experimental Station, Saanichton, B.C. The service was read by Rev. J. V. Mills.

Wedding music was played by Miss Ruth Mills and Alfred Murray sang "All Joy Be Thine" during the signing of the register.

An afternoon dress of pale blue crepe styled with draped bodice, three-quarter-length sleeves and draped skirt edged with lace was worn by the bride as she entered the church with her father. A band of pink flowers with matching veiling formed her headdress and she carried a bouquet of mixed flowers.

Her only attendant was Miss Beryl McArthur who chose a street-length dress of grey, and wore a band of pastel flowers in her hair. She completed her costume with a corsage bouquet of orchid gladioli.

Groomsmen were J. D. Wilson of Fergus, and Granville Taylor, Monroe of Kitchener and John Mills Jr. of Waterloo, were ushers. A reception followed at the McArthur residence where the bride's mother assisted in welcoming the guests.

For their honeymoon trip, an English herringbone suit of beige with lime-green blouse, dark brown accessories and corsage

Attends Students' Work Camp

Miss Marjorie Anstey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Anstey, Milner Road, Victoria, returned last week-end from a Students-in-Industry and Agricultural Work Camp, held at Brantford, Ont., during the summer months.

This camp, one of several held in industrial areas of southern Ontario and the agricultural area near Winnipeg, in the past two years, was held primarily to study economic equalities and make adjustments and their resulting social ills.

Students in arts, engineering, law, medicine, commerce and theology, representing universities and colleges in all parts of Canada, studied these conditions while working in factories and on farms.

These young people lived together on a co-operative basis, governed themselves and experimented with a wage pool. In this scheme, all wages earned by the students were pooled and each member received a weekly basic wage, with the surplus being divided amongst those deemed by a committee to have a greater need.

Miss Anstey, who represented the University of British Columbia at the camp, has been appointed convener of the British Columbia region of the Canadian Work Camp Fellowship, which with the Student Christian Movement, is sponsoring the camps. Plans have been made to have an increased number of camps next year.

Miss Anstey left again Sunday for Vancouver, to continue her studies at the University of British Columbia.

Diocesan W.A. Board Meets At St. Mark's

Mrs. M. Mackenzie presided at business sessions of the British Columbia Diocesan W.A. board meeting at St. Mark's Church, Cloverdale. Mrs. A. F. C. Watts welcomed members, Mrs. W. C. Heathfield led prayers and Mrs. Percy E. George took the Bible reading.

Rev. N. S. Noel was celebrant at service of communion held in the morning, assisted by Rev. F. S. M. Tormalin. Members stood in silent tribute to the memory of Mrs. F. F. Patt and Miss F. Camroux.

Treasurer's report, presented by Mrs. S. G. Wilson showed total receipts of $100.78 since June. Miss M. Rathbone, educational secretary, spoke of the new study book. Mrs. H. Roach, Dorcas secretary, reported two bales of clothing sent to Regina for prairie relief, a bale of hospital supplies sent to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, Lytton, one bale to Kingcome Inlet and a bale of clothing and Christmas parcels to St. Michael's School, China. Mrs. F. E. L. Philip reported six sacks of reading matter dispatched to the Columbia Coast Mission.

Miss M. F. Hooper, a Bishop's messenger at Swan River, Man., gave an address on her work.

Other reports were presented by Mrs. F. Goodwin, girls' secretary, and Mrs. R. C. Keane, juniors' secretary.

Dorothy Dix

Dear Miss Dix: I have a step-daughter of 14 of whom I am very fond, and she has always been devoted to me until recently when she has begun to resent all authority. I try to handle her very tactfully and to make suggestions rather than commands. The main trouble is that she is very untidy about herself and her room—and I get tired of picking up after her.

What can I do?
STEPMOTHER.
Answer: All girls of that age are rebels. They are just beginning to feel that they are grown-up and they resent all authority. And they are all lazy. Try leaving her clothes where she drops them and see if she will pick them up when she finds she hasn't anything clean to wear.

Donlevy carries on with his

Comedy Hit Stars Barbara Stanwyck

Sixteen years ago, when the play, "Burlesque," was sailing along as one of the hit plays of the season, every studio in Hollywood wanted it, but none of them wanted the little girl who sang, danced and emoted in the feminine lead, Barbara Stanwyck.

She reached Hollywood a half year later, and, today, every studio in town dangles attractive roles before her eyes and asks her to "please sign here."

Taking advantage of this pleasant state of affairs, Barbara chose Paramount's romantic comedy, "The Bride Wore Boots," currently showing at the Royal

Theatre, for her latest starring vehicle.

Seven years ago, on the maiden voyage it carried Tyrone Power,

Laird Cregar and Maureen

O'Hara to the lair of "The Black

Swan."

Now, in Benedict Bogeaus' presentation of "Captain Kidd," currently at the Rio Theatre through United Artists release, it roams the briny deep on serious business.

Laughton Skippers Fine Brigantine

In "Captain Kidd," Charles
Laughton, the pirate king, commands as super de-luxe a brigantine as ever sailed the seas.
Nearly 200 feet long and 75 feet wide, it has three tall masts, poop decks and hatches to light the eye of the saltiest skipper.

Joan Bennett Plays In 49th Picture

Joan Bennett, considered one of the most beautiful women on the screen today, and currently starring with Edward G. Robinson in International Pictures' new drama, "The Woman in the Window," now being shown at the Oak Bay Theatre, was not a pretty child, neither did her family consider her particularly talented.

She attained instant success when she went to Hollywood in 1928, and "The Woman in the ture.

Atwill Featured In Horror Picture

Lionel Atwill, famed for his Nazi portrayals, is featured as a police inspector in Universal's
"House of Dracula," which opens today at the Plaza Theatre.

The super-horror vehicle, suc-

the Wolf Man, John Carradine in his familiar Count Dracula role and Glenn Strange as the Frankenstein Monster.

Howe Says Canada Can Construct 60,000 Housing Units In 1946-47

OTTAWA (CP)—The housing target of 60,000 units during 1946-47 is "well within the productive capacity of this country," Reconstruction Minister Howe said today in releasing a survey of the "demand side" of housing manpower and materials conducted by the economic research branch of his department.

Mr. Howe said the survey results were being published "largely for the guidance of industry—to assist it in the responsible task of providing the tools needed."

The report, a bulky, technical document, gives over-all estimates of material and manpower requirements for housing targets varying from 50,000 to 80,000 units a year.

The tremendous implications to many aspects of Canadian life are illustrated in the report's estimate of what a 50,000-unit program would mean to the Canadian economy. Such a program would mean:

1. New homes for approximately 200,000 people.
2. Jobs for one year for 134,000 to 162,000, with 62,000 to 75,000 working directly on building sites and the remainder in supplying industries.

GREAT PAYROLL

3. A total annual payroll to construction workers of $103,000,000 to $125,000,000.
4. Orders of between $144,000,000 and $175,000,000 to manufacturers and distributors, split among the following nine major supply industries: (Minimum figures) cement, sand and gravel, $11,000,000; brick, tile and stone, $7,200,000; lumber, $61,500,000; lath, plaster, stucco and insulating materials, $16,500,000; roofing, $4,200,000; paint and glass, $4,600,000; plumbing and heating fixtures, $26,000,000; electrical equipment, $3,600,000, and other materials, $7,100,000.
5. Contractors' and builders' earnings of at least $28,000,000.
6. Total construction expenditures of between $275,000,000 and $334,000,000.
7. Real estate transactions of $27,000,000 to $33,000,000.
8. Unestimated incomes and fees for architects and other professional groups.
9. Improvement of the fiscal position of many municipalities because of increased revenue and spreading the burden of maintaining and expanding public facilities among a larger number of home owners.
10. Substantially expanding business of lending institutions responsible for financing a major part of the program.

MANY BENEFIT

"Apart from the direct effects of the housing program enumerated above," the report says, "very substantial indirect effects will result . . . contributing to increased economic activity among a great number of trades and business in practically every part of the country."

The report adds that the figures quoted "have to be raised by 20 per cent for every additional 10,000 houses built."

An analysis of increasing costs shows two major factors—higher prices for materials and labor and a "lowering of efficiency . . . owing to special conditions arising from the war."

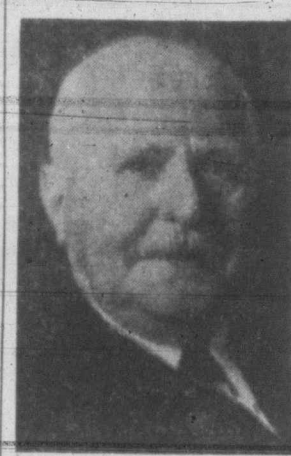

The cost of materials increased by 42 per cent between 1939 and 1945 and labor costs by 31 per cent. This resulted in a "weighted average" of 37 per cent in the cost of an individual unit—"substantially in line with increases in earnings."

The lowering of efficiency is attributed to "dilution of the skilled working force by untrained or partly trained men and delays on building sites due to shortages of materials." The increased cost by an additional 10 to 25 per cent and "is considerably out of line with increases in costs of other products."

All factors considered, building costs had risen 47 to 62 per cent from 1939 to 1945 and "a further rise is indicated."

No substantial reduction of costs is to be expected until efficiency increases, the report says, and even this may be offset by further increases in the price of materials and higher wages.

Dies In Portland

Former Governor of Oregon, Charles H. Martin, above, a retired major-general of the U.S. army, died Sunday night at his home in Portland. He was 82. Mr. Martin visited Victoria in April, 1942, when he addressed the 10th international banquet of resort and hotel men of Washington and Oregon. In politics he was a Democrat.

In the city only 12 permits were issued for a total value of $25,925, and only two of these were for dwellings. The remaining 10 were for minor alterations and repairs.

In Saanich 10 of the permits were for houses, totaling $49,250. Included in these were a five-room house, $6,500 on Middleton Avenue; a five-room house, $3,300 at Bromley Place; a six-room house, $4,500 on Wilkinson Road; a five-room house, $4,900 at 3320 Whittier Avenue; a four-room house, $4,500 on Doncaster Drive; and a five-room house, $4,500 on Carey Road.

Five permits were issued in Oak Bay during the week for construction valued at $24,140. Four permits were for houses costing a total of $24,000. They were for a $6,500 eight-room house at 2082 Haultain Street; a $5,000 four-room house at 2033 Milton Street; a $6,000 six-room house at 2489 Epworth Street, and a $6,500 six-room house at 2063 Kings Road.

London Church Scene Of Demonstration

LONDON (CP)—Demonstrators protesting what they described as "Romish" practices interrupted a high service in the Church of St. Cuthbert Sunday and were ejected after a noisy struggle during which a clergyman was reported grabbed in a football tackle.

The demonstrators, members of the National Union of Protestants, shouted "masses are unlawful," as they went into action while the parish assistant, Rev. R. V. Glazebrook, was conducting the service of the Church of England.

A man seated in the congregation jumped up and began to read from a printed slip—"This is a parish church of the Church of England, masses are unlawful."

Two ushers attempted to stop the outburst, but the demonstrator struggled free and dashed into the pulpit, where he resumed reading. He clung to the chancel rail, but was finally ejected into the street.

Another demonstrator jerked a bundle of leaflets from his jacket and threw them among the pews, shouting "Here is the truth."

Three other persons were removed under protest, while the service continued. Outside the demonstrators yelled: "The service you have had this morning is contrary to the prayer book. This is not the Church of Rome."

Police pulled up in a patrol car and prevented further demonstrations outside.

The National Union of Protestants, which claims about 25,000 members, was organized during the war to combat what members described as "Romish" practices in the Church of England.

It opposes the Anglican mass, confession, use of Latin church services and the erection of statues in churches. The membership is composed mostly of Church of England laymen, with a sprinkling of clergymen.

Poses As Doctor, Performs Operations

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A high school graduate from Royal Oaks,

Mich., posed as a doctor and performed minor surgical operations at the Metropolitan General Hospital this year, it was revealed Friday.

The man, Howard Leslie Groves, 25, is being held in Detroit on a warrant charging him with uttering and publishing narcotics prescriptions and with illegal possession of narcotics.

Police said Groves also has posed as an army major, an electrical engineer and the president of a "Little Flying Tiger Airlines" project. When arrested he had announcements advertising the services of "Howard L. Groves, M.D., psychologist," police added.

Some of the man's actions—such as entering an operating room without a mask—were explained by "Aw, that's the way we did it in the army."

V.O.N. On The Job

This little operation is known to the corps of Victorian Order of Nurses as "showing mother how to do it." Miss Hattie Empey, on one of her home nursing visits, shows this six-year-old Chinese girl's mother how to cleanse the child's eyes with boracic, as ordered by the doctor.

This is just one of the many tasks performed in the 1,400 visits per month to homes where there is illness in the Victoria area by the V.O.N. group, whose work is partially financed by the Community Chest, whose campaign for $100,000 will open on Oct. 1.

Although the V.O.N. in January of this year discontinued its work for the city, checking infectious diseases and running the baby clinics, Miss M. Baird, nurse in charge, said that the peak of work remained high, due largely to the shortage of nurses for home nursing and for hospital work. They have seven visiting nurses on the staff now who are working full time.

AUTUMN LEAVES IN THEIR PROGRESS—AN ALBINO ROBIN

By ROBERT CONNELL

A stroll in our local woodland the other afternoon revealed the extent to which, by slow degrees, the leaves of trees and shrubs have put on their autumn colors. While their actual fall is scarcely begun the change is under way. For one thing I found the air full of the scent of autumn, the scent of ripened wild fruits and foliage. It is one of the pleasantest of scents because so many are its contributors—the rose hips, the blackberries, the tiny crabapples, the ruddy haws, the scarlet rowans and all the various leaves from the ripened grasses to the lofty summits of maple and cottonwood. It is a scent that irresistibly calls up the later one of burning leaf piles in tidy gardens.

Where the path runs between, high thickets the leaves of the osoberry were seen patched with pale yellow and the Saskatoon's neat little ones flushed faintly with red. The wild rose leaves in places were tinged with carmine; in some, whole branches of leafage were dark maroon above and green below—scarlet of hips large and small contrasted strikingly in color and form. The great canes of the cultivated blackberry that straggle in their life of escape over the neighboring bushes bore not only autumnal coloring among their more plentiful green foliage, but clusters of shining black fruit and even clusters of pink flowers, the "later flowers for the bees" that Keats sang of.

The snowberry's leaves were mostly green still, but here and there some were found where autumn had brought out in clear distinctness the veining in rich green against a background of pale yellow—the latter were the foliage of the young shoots in which the leaves are very often strongly toothed.

MAPLES TURNING

The large maples were already exhibiting conspicuous patches of fall coloring, bright yellow and tan, especially on the upper boughs, and already on the ground below brown and ochreous leaves were scattered. Meanwhile the great mass of maple foliage seemed an even brighter green than usual. The cottonwoods were little affected as yet. The willows were yellowing in some instances, but the young growth of the hooker species was beautifully green and fresh. The veins and veinlets of the wild mock-orange were vividly green against a background of rose and fawn—those of the ocean spray were turning a deep dark red.

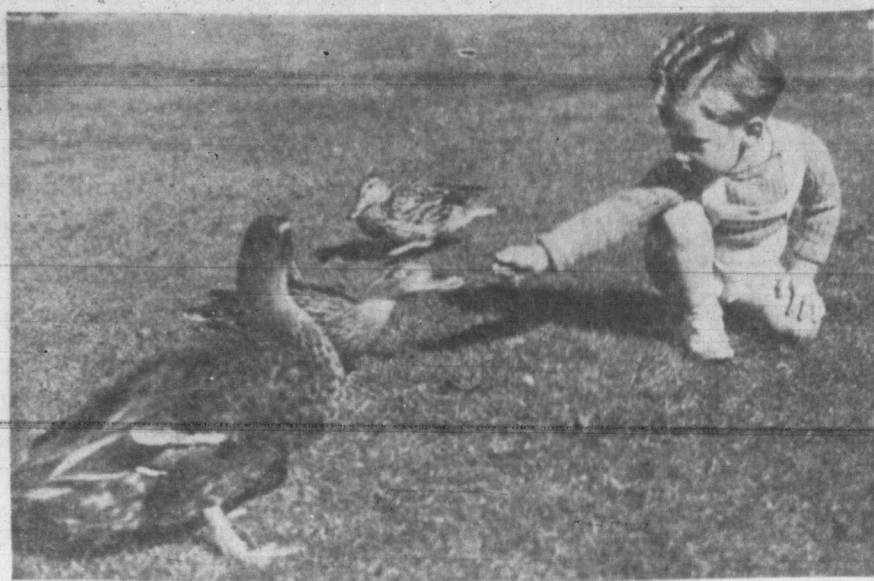

The red-barked dogwood showed a pretty combination of color—twigs bearing green leaves and others in which green, rose and bright yellow were blended. The autumn colors were displayed on the old growth, while on the young wood the vividness of the green was very marked. A flowering-currant bush was a very striking example of this. The slowing down and eventual cessation of internal activity leads to the accumulation of red and yellow pigments in the leaves, whose active work in over—it is a result of ripening just as is the coloration of fruit. The young wood will continue at work much longer.

The red colors of fall recall those of spring on many trees and shrubs; indeed on some red is found all the year round. For example our evergreen huckleberry not only is distinguished by the vivid redness of its buds and young growth, but all through the year it never quite loses the red on some of its leaves. The coppery red of the young shoots and leaves of the Oregon-grape is replaced in the fall by vivid red in both species.

I have just seen in the garden a robin abundantly-flecked with white, one of those examples of albinism met with every now and then—in this instance only partial.

Beacon Hill Ducks Welcome A 'Hand-Out'

Like three-year-old Doug Heaslip, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Heaslip, 2830 Graham Street, you will have lots of feathered friends at Beacon Hill Park provided you visit them with a morsel or two to appease their appetites. Young Doug took a supply of stale bread from his mother's pantry when he went to see the ducks and he was practically mobbed by the quackers when they saw he had not come empty-handed. Hundreds of mallards make their year-round home at the lakes and pools of the park and are so tame they'll eat out of your hand. Doug Heaslip hopes the weather will stay bright so he'll be able to visit the friendly ducks again soon.

Six In Ten Voters Want Year's Compulsory Military Training

By CANADIAN INSTITUTE OF PUBLIC OPINION

TORONTO — Although Canada, in contrast to United States, has adopted the voluntary system for maintaining her standing army, a majority of adult voters in this country still think it would be a good idea to compel all able-bodied young men to take a year's military training.

Indicative of the effect which the current fevered peace efforts have had on the public's point of view is the fact that, instead of diminishing since the defeat of Germany and Japan, sentiment in favor of compulsory military service has actually risen slightly since the war days.

Latest Gallup poll, in which all types of voters were represented in their true proportion, was based on the question: "Do you think every able-bodied young man should be required to serve a year's training in the navy, army or air force, before he reaches the age of 25?"

In March, 1943, and again in November, 1944, the same issue was put this way:

"After the war is over, do you think every able-bodied young man should be required to serve one year in the army, navy or air force?"

The wording is sufficiently similar to permit comparison—a comparison which shows a steady increase in approval:

	March 1943	Nov. 1944	Today
Approve training	54%	65%	66%
Disapprove	44%	34%	33%
No opinion	10%	1%	1%

As in 1943 and 1944, Quebec voters, who have consistently voted against compulsory military service for overseas, show a majority in favor of a national military training plan. However, a strong minority (41 per cent) registered disapproval. A strong minority (32 per cent) of farmers across Canada also disapprove compulsory military training.

Canadian opinion as a whole on this issue is in line with that in United States, where the Gallup Poll has reported approximately the same percentages in favor of continuing the draft law.

Voters in this country were asked (if they indicated approval on the first question):

"At what age do you think it would be best for young men to have this training?"

Of the 66 per cent who approved the first question, largest number (16 per cent) thought 18 years was the best time to take this training. More than half specifically mentioned an age below 20, and another sizeable group answered, in effect: "When their schooling is completed."

There might be worse barometers of the public's satisfaction with the progress of peace machinery than that provided by this issue.

Cards Lead Dodgers By Half Game As Teams Enter Home-Stretch Dash

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sport Writer

"The war of nerves" enters its final week today as St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers race down the stretch for the National League pennant.

At the moment, the Red Birds lead Manager Lippy Leo Durocher's Dodgers by half a game. The Cards have six games left to play while the Dodgers have five.

The Brooks meet Manager Ben Chapman's hustling Philadelphia Phils at Ebbets Field today while the Cards clash with the Cubs in Chicago.

St. Louis blew an opportunity to take a stranglehold on first place by taking a 7 to 2 beating from the Cubs yesterday while the Dodgers split a twin bill with Boston Braves.

The Dodgers came back and hammered the Braves into an 8 to 1 defeat in the final at Braves Field. Vic Lombardi throttled the Braves with four singles.

The Braves and Cubs are waging a battle themselves for third place. The Cubs at the moment enjoy a 1½ game margin over the fourth-place Braves.

CLEVELAND IN SPOTLIGHT

In the American League the spotlight was on Cleveland where Detroit's hurricane Hal Newhouse and Cleveland's Bobby Feller clashed in a hurling duel. The Bengal left-hander outpitched the Tribe speed king, 3 to 0, allowing only two hits.

New York Yankees downed Philadelphia Athletics, 4 to 3, and 7 to 4. Spud Chandler won his 19th game in the opener while the Yanks came from behind with a four-run fifth-inning rally to win the nightcap that was called because of darkness at the end of 5½ frames.

The flag-winning Boston Red Sox beat Washington Senators 4 to 1 as Tex Hughson spaced six hits to gain his 19th win. Rip Russell and Wally Moses homered for the Sox.

Rookie Fred Sanford hurled his second straight shutout since joining St. Louis Browns from Toledo. Sanford blanked Chicago White Sox, 2 to 0 but the Browns

Other games in the National League saw the Philadelphia Phils take the New York Giants twice, 4 to 3 and 1 to 0 and the Cincinnati Reds defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 2 and 6 to 3.

Gallorette Wins

NEW YORK (AP)—W. L. Brann's Gallorette won the first section of the $50,000-added Belmont Handicap before 33,676 fans in the slop at Aqueduct Saturday to become third highest money-winning filly of all time with earnings of $256,410.

NANAIMO NINE IN LEAD
VANCOUVER (CP)—Nanaimo Clippers won the first game 3 to 2 and wound up the second, a 15-inning affair, in a 7 to 7 deadlock when they fought New Westminster Commercial Firemen in the opening games of the best-of-three senior B men's B.C. title series here Saturday night. A replay of the tied game has been ordered. It will be played at Nanaimo next Saturday.

LEGION VICTORS
In an exhibition soccer game played Saturday, Canadian Legion's senior squad defeated Oak Bay, 4 to 1, at Macdonald Park.

The Goodwin Cup competitions scheduled by the Burnside Lawn Bowling Club for yesterday have been postponed until next Saturday.

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—Nanaimo City Football Club Saturday signalled their return to the Pacific Coast Senior League as they tossed St. Saviours of Vancouver, 4 to 3, in a hard-fought contest.

There was lots of rough-house stuff in the special bout in which Hardy Kruscamp, 220-pound Columbus groan and grunt artist, beat Mel Peters in straight falls. A draw verdict was the decision

Canadiens Workout In 80 Degrees

By SYD THOMAS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

If the hockey season keeps getting any longer don't be surprised if the National Hockey League Squads have to do their early tuning up somewhere up north. If the Eskimos would take the game up now, everything would work out fine.

Montreal Canadiens started their pre-season training at the Forum here last Thursday, and the weatherman promptly provided some 80-degree weather.

Not that it was that hot inside the rink as it was at least two or three degrees cooler. Even the ice plant broke down momentarily under the strain.

The slightly unseasonable hockey weather hasn't put any crimps in the activities, though, with Dick Irvin's hopefuls going all out.

Around this crowded burg, the thing starting to worry hockey promoters is the housing situation. Under the residence rule of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, a player has to be a "bona fide" resident by Nov. 1 of the place he plans to do his ice caperings.

With living accommodations about as scarce as beer at a Sunday School picnic, the big problem is—what will happen to the puck type who just can't find a place to lay his restriction-baffled head?

Imports always have been the delight of a coach's heart, but if too many players run afoul of the rule there might be a partial return to the naive old days when some centres actually took pride in boasting they had "home brew" teams.

McColl, Painter Win Golf Button Match

Billy McColl and Vic Painter, Colwood club players, successfully defended their golf button against the challenge of Eric Barber and Jack Clarke of Gorge Vale Sunday over Colwood course.

One down at the turn the defending team came back strong on the incoming nine to win the match three and one. Their next defence of the button will be against Dr. G. B. Bigelow and Alan Taylor of the Victoria Golf Club.

$48 Realized At Lacrosse Benefit

In a benefit box lacrosse game at Stevenson Memorial Park Sunday in aid of the injured players' fund, Canadian Legion, Island intermediate champions, had little trouble in defeating the Junior Tillamooks, 13 to 3.

Norm Baker and Duff McCaghey topped the Legion sharpshooters, each tallying three times, while Austin Cullin and Buddy Lott picked up a pair of goals.

Over $48 was turned over to the injured players' fund. These two clubs will mark time until Saturday when they journey to Nanaimo to take part in the B.C. playdowns.

Royals Lead Series

Hitting three Syracuse pitchers freely, Montreal Royals took a 2 to 1 edge in the best-in-seven governor's cup playoffs by walloping the Chiefs 11 to 1.

Led by Les Burge, who had four hits and four runs in four times at bat, the Royals teed off on Mike Schultz for five runs in the first three innings. They added four more tallies off Earl Harris and completed it with a pair off Bob Katz in the eighth.

McKechnie Resigns

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Gabe Paul, traveling secretary of the Cincinnati Baseball Club, announced Sunday the resignation of 59-year-old Bill McKechnie as Red manager.

McKechnie told newspapermen his resignation followed a telephone conversation with Warren Giles, club general manager, earlier today.

Vancouver Shores Beat Victoria Eleven

Playing together in league action for the first time, manager Ralph Cosier's Victoria United young eleven fell to defeat 5 to 1 before the onslaught of the vastly more experienced North Shore invaders from Vancouver Saturday night at Athletic Park when the locals made their post-war debut in the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

This was the first time Victoria followers of the sport have seen the game presented on the local scene under floodlights, and with the weatherman co-operating nicely by dropping the wind, many of the 1,100 fans questioned expressed themselves as having enjoyed the game under the stars. It is understood this is the only floodlight game scheduled for soccer in 1946.

The victory hoisted the North Shores, boasting a good many of the old guard who sparked the team to provincial honors last season, into the leading slot in the standings, for this was the second straight triumph since their start. Over in Vancouver, league champions last season, made a good new season start by taking the measure of Kerrisdale 6 to 1. United travels to meet St. Andrews, will oppose Kerrisdale here the following Saturday.

Rated among Canada's best in the game, the Shores had too much experience on the ball and were full value for their win. However, the young and speedy Cosier men put up a plucky fight from start to finish and in the opinion of officials of the club and league, when they have tucked away more experience in playing, they will make things a lot tougher for the other entries in the five-team circuit.

UNITED TO STAY TOGETHER

Pat Mulcahy, soccer commissioner, pointed out that the United will stay together as a team and that the prewar policy of naming players from clubs plenty difficult for Victoria United players to set up any shots for the goalmouth.

In the star role on the Vancouver team was Trevor Harvey, centre forward. He played smart football throughout, bagged one of the goals and teed up things that paid off with two other goals.

THE GOAL-GETTERS

The game was 10 minutes old when the first marker was registered, outside right Sid Gorie taking Harvey's pass up the middle, tapping it over to outside left Bill Gemmell, who sank it. Before the half was over, inside left Jimmy Spencer slammed a high shot past Bobby Moss, Victoria goalie, after taking Harvey's neat pass.

In the final session Gorie and Bill Smith, inside right, each made hemp with shots before Fraser's unusual goal, which came at a time in the game when the United boys displayed their best attacking form. Harvey tallied North Shore's final goal minutes before the finish.

The congratulation of the fans to George Barnes for a fine job as a referee were numerous. Many old-timers on the sidelines commented his performance with the whistle was the finest refereeing they had ever seen locally.

Teams follow:
North Shore—Laycock, Cummings and Harrison; Zielski, Morley and R. Hunter; Gorie, Smith, Harvey, Spencer and Gemmell. Spare: Leslie.

Victoria—Moss; T. Druce and Fraser; McMillan, Wright and M. Speller; Shubrooke, Jenkins, Cooper, Sage and A. Travis. Spares: K. Druce, Okell, Barnswell, Reside.

Good Mutuel Prices On Fina Day Of Race Meet

Before the largest crowd of the 14-day meeting the 1946 racing season came to a close for Victorians at the Willows on Saturday with Miss M. Chiappas's Nalod finally getting down in front to capture the featured Colanist Handicap.

Nalod, ridden by jockey Emil Spoori, picked up the tiring leaders entering the stretch and held off the late charge of the heavily-backed Saffworth, to walk off with the winners' share of the $1,000 added purse.

Besides riding the winner in the feature event, Spoori notched two more winners as he was aboard the favored Art Gallery in the third, and Pepper Pot in the two miles and 30 yards marathon, the final race of the day.

$189 DAILY-DOUBLE MONEY

Belle Park, overlooked by the betting public, returned $20.85, $11.60 and $6.90 in the first, and combined with Trip Over in the second to return a healthy double of $189.50, the second largest double price of the meet.

Another double figure was posted in the fifth race when Bruno's Touch romped home in front, to return backers with $15.40, $7.50 and $3.95. Lovely Way led from wire to wire in the fourth, and was never extended as he copped the decision from the favorite Barbrack.

The sport of kings is over in Victoria for another year, one week short of the scheduled 21 days, due to a ruling by the Municipality of Oak Bay which curtailed the meet.

Dr. K. R. Darbyshire, on behalf of the horsemen, stated that the owners had left the city with a feeling of regret that they were not able to complete three weeks of racing due to a controversial issue over which they had no control, but that never again on a British Columbia track would such a condition arise.

Pike Green Scores Upset In 50-Lap Auto Race Feature

Proving he is no longer a novice at wheeling racing cars, Victoria's Pike Green scored an upset at the final meet of the 1946 season at Langford Speedway Saturday night when he downed the little king, Digger Caldwell, in the feature 50-lap main event.

Driving an American car, Pike moved up from his starting third position and passed Caldwell who started in the No. 1 slot, on the 15th lap. He won the race with Caldwell right on his tail.

After getting the checkered flag, Pike swung wide on the south turn, nicked a wrecked car which had been pushed off to the side, and found himself sitting outside the fence with a gaping hole in the boards behind him. He was not injured, though.

His crack-up was one of several which had close to 2,000 fans excited throughout the program.

Hitting pay-dirt in the main event were the following in finishing order: Pike Green, Caldwell, Lou McMurtry, Seattle; Bob Wensley, Jerry Vanreight, Jack Norton, Del Fanning, Portland; and Buddy Green, Seattle, older brother of Pike. Time for the 50 laps was 15 minutes 24 6-10 seconds.

Things began to pop on the sixth lap when the local driver Spence Mathews, spun across the track on the south turn. Wes Winthrop, Seattle, following close behind, cracked into him, Mathews' new car came out second best. There were several other less serious mishaps, including three spins by Buddy Green who started the race in second position and was favored to give Caldwell a run for the money. Twelve cars started the main and eight finished. Jack Spaulding's U.S. car was forced out late in the race after he had been holding down fourth position most of the way. Zeke Ziegler, Seattle, spun out half way through.

PLENTY OF SPINS
There were lots of spins and close calls in the 50-lap B class semi-main won by Lloyd Blair, Seattle. Harold Brown, Victoria, was second, and Flip Snider, Seattle, third. They were the only three to finish.

Caldwell won the three-lap Helmet Dash. He was pressed by Buddy Green the whole way, but managed to keep the former Victorian in second spot. The first heat race finished the same. Green nearly nicked Caldwell on the last lap. Pike Green was third and Spaulding fourth.

Ziegler won the second heat, passing the leading Spaulding on the second-to-last lap. Spaulding was second and Vanreight third. Mathews was fourth.

Wensley won the third heat beating Norton on the last lap. McMurtry was third and Mathews, who had started in the first position, was again fourth. Fanning won the fourth with Mathews coming second. Mathews started in top spot but the American passed him on the first lap. Winthrop was third and Johnny Gorman, Seattle, fourth.

Top Auto Racers Receive Trophies

As hundreds of excited fans crowded around them, local auto racers were presented with trophies for scoring the highest points during the 1946 Langford Speedway season at the conclusion of the final program Saturday night.

Digger Caldwell was presented with the Sutton Memorial Trophy for being the top driver of the year. He scored 53 points, 13 more than the second-place winner. He was presented with the handsome trophy of a miniature racer atop a pedestal, by Mrs. Dorothy Sutton, wife of a former race-car driver, who died early in the war.

Pike Green was second-place winner and received a trophy for his efforts, presented by Caldwell. Third was Jerry Vanreight, fourth Jack Spaulding, fifth Bob Wensley, sixth Corky Thomas, seventh Jimmy Laird, eighth Roy Vincent, and ninth Jack Norton.

The DOCTOR Says:

STREPTOMYCIN HELPS MAN CONQUER DISEASE

By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M.D.
The announcement that limited distribution of streptomycin will start, is good news. The distribution will, provide physicians with a remedy to use in treating certain infections which have not responded to the sulfa drugs or penicillin.

Streptomycin was discovered by Selman A. Waksman, Ph.D., and his New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station associates at Rutgers University in 1941.

These investigators extracted the remedy from fungi which are found in rotten leaves and stagnant rain water. The researchers were rewarded with success because they anticipated that the soil contained agents which kept the germ life under control and killed off the excess.

Streptomycin aids the body in combatting infections in a natural way. When the drug is injected into tissues, it goes to all parts of the body by way of the blood, destroying special varieties of germs wherever they are encountered. (Streptomycin cannot do the job alone, however; the body must take care of a certain number.)

BODY RETAINS IT WELL

Streptomycin appears to be retained in the body longer than is penicillin, and for this reason the injections are given at less frequent intervals. The excess leaves by way of the urine, which must be checked regularly to make sure that not too much streptomycin is accumulating in the body.

The effect of streptomycin on germs has been studied in the test tube, where it is effective on certain varieties which penicillin and the sulfa drugs fail to kill. It has been tried on experimental tuberculosis in guinea pigs with apparently good results.

With the limited amounts which have been available, experts have been using streptomycin in certain diseases in man (infections of the urinary tract, influenza meningitis, tularemia, typhoid fever and certain forms of tuberculosis).

In some forms of tuberculosis, streptomycin may prove to be the treatment of choice if enough of the drug is available. At the present time, there is no likelihood that we will abandon the rest treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis. Streptomycin will be used as a supplement, rather than as a replacement.

ITS VALUE IS PROVEN

Streptomycin is of proven value in infections caused by certain germs. Its effect varies with the strain, and in some cases it is of no value at all.

Streptomycin has not yet been obtained in a pure form, and it may be that some of the so-called impurities have important treatment properties.

The chemical formula of streptomycin is complicated, and it is not likely that it will be reproduced in the laboratory for some time. But commercial production will soon catch up with our need, according to those in charge of the program.

Uncle Ray

FEELERS OF INSECT OFTEN PROVIDE SENSE OF SMELL

Because most insects are small, people know little about the shape of their bodies. How different it would be if all insects were "blown up" so as to become 100 times as long, and 100 times as thick! Then we should see sights of the greatest interest. Around us would be animals of countless forms and some of them would be very dangerous, indeed.

Even with their present small size, certain insects are dangerous. They spread disease and destroy millions of dollars worth of plant crops each year.

Along with the bad insects, there are many which we may call "good." Bees give us honey and silkworms provide silk. Some kinds of insects spread pollen from plant to plant, and these are needed to keep various races of food plants alive.

On insects we find the queer things called "antennae" or "feelers." They stand out in front of the head, and are of a great deal of importance.

An insect has two feelers on its head. In certain insect tribes, the feelers look like horns, and at times are called "horns," but they are used in different ways than the horns of cattle or goats.

As we might gather from the name, the first purpose of feelers is to feel. They give the insect a sense of touch; by feeling with them, it is able to learn a great deal about the things which are close to it.

The feelers of insects differ a great deal in size and shape. A butterfly has simple, club-shaped feelers. A sawfly, on the other hand, has feelers with dozens of branches on each of them. A male mosquito has scores of tiny hairs on each feeler. A microscope is needed to study the hairs on a mosquito's feelers, or the branches on the feelers of a sawfly.

Besides giving an insect a sense of touch, the feelers often provide a sense of smell. Not having a nose such as people and furry animals have, insects need something else with which to smell. For this purpose, many kinds of insects use their feelers.

Certain insects also use their feelers as organs of hearing. Male mosquitoes "hear" with the tiny hairs on their feelers. Long-horned grasshoppers have feelers which are longer than their bodies.

Macmillan May Lead Tories Against Labor

LONDON (CP) — Harold Macmillan, 52, aggressive Conservative member of Parliament for Bromley, who served as aide to the Duke of Devonshire in 1920 when the latter was Governor-General in Canada, has become the voice of Conservative hopes for a united front against Socialism in Britain.

Mr. Macmillan was resident minister at Allied headquarters in the Mediterranean theatre in 1944 and held other responsible posts during the Churchill administration. He is a forceful speaker often on the Opposition front bench for crucial debates, but is generally considered more pliable than some of the Conservative old guard, and therefore a better negotiator with other parties.

His recent statements have indicated he expects some concessions will have to be made by the Conservatives if Liberals and moderate Labor elements are to respond to their invitations.

Mr. Macmillan's suggestions are for a "New Democratic Party." He, like other Conservatives, believes there will be a strong reaction against the Labor government and its policies eventually, and he is hopeful there will be a party organization ready to accept Labor men who feel they should join one strong party to oppose Socialism.

Indicating a readiness to bargain, Mr. Macmillan recently said he did not expect a great body of Liberal or moderate Labor opinion to come to the Conservative Party, but in hand, without conditions or concessions. But he was convinced the dividing line between parties eventually would delineate those who believed in socialist nationalization plans and those who saw "the grim nightmare of a totalitarian state."

"Gentleman Jack" Jackson was the first and only amateur to hold the world championship boxing title, in 1795.

ABOUT
JOHNS-MANVILLE
HOUSE SURVIVES
HALO OF FLAMES
Here's how another home was saved from fire by Asbestos—the magic mineral.
This house was situated just 10 feet from a building which was completely destroyed by fire. A barrage of sparks and billowing flame roared across an alley separating the two buildings—yet the house remained undamaged! You see, it was protected by Johns-Manville Cedargrain Asbestos Siding Shingles.
In addition, J.M. Cedargrains are strikingly attractive. They have all the charm and beauty of fine, weathered wood. Made of Asbestos and cement, they will not rot or deteriorate—never need paint to preserve them. Cedargrains can be applied right over old-fashioned siding in remodeling—and they're ideal for new buildings, too. Ask your nearest J-M dealer for free illustrated folder. Curants, Raisins, Prunes Bulk-Bought Canada's requirements of prunes, raisins and curants for the next season will continue to be bought by the Commodity Prices Stabilization Corporation on the bulk purchase plan it was announced in a recent food bulletin of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

This is the result of recent action by the International Emergency Food Council in removing all dried fruits from international allocation for the 1946-47 marketing year.

The decision to continue the bulk purchase plan for those commodities was made partly because of the unsettled price position in the United States and partly to facilitate distribution within Canada.

Importations of other dried fruits such as dates, figs, apricots, peaches and pears will take place through the normal trade channels under general import license.

Ceilings will be fixed by an administrator's order at a later date, and present indications are that the new prices will follow fairly closely those at present in effect.

Cull lumber at less than the price of wood. This lumber cannot be sold commercially at the sawmill because of being offsize, too much bark, splits, picked out to repair barns, sidewalks, fences and garden stakes. Even if all this lumber were cut into wood it would be cheap inside wood and a load will make about 1 1/2 cords. Especially handy for people who live outside of town and find it hard to get wood.

Telegraph Girl Badly Injured In Traffic Smash

A fracture of the skull as well as a broken arm were received by 16-year-old Molly Glendy, 326 St. James Street, C.N. Telegraph delivery girl whose bicycle was in collision with a car at Pandora Avenue and Stanley Street, Saturday.

Her condition at Jubilee Hospital today was reported to be fairly good.

City police said driver of the car involved in the accident was Helen M. Blanchet, 670 Mount Joy Avenue. As well as the fractures, the girl suffered numerous cuts and bruises.

TRAM MISHAP
Hugh Campbell, 80 years old, Y.M.C.A., received a fractured right wrist, abrasions on his face and bruises when, police said, he walked into the side of a street-car on Douglas Street near Johnson Street at 8.45 Sunday evening. Motorman of the street-car was William Gilmour, 3840 Cadboro Bay Road, police reported. The elderly man was taken to Jubilee Hospital where his condition was said to be good.

HIT PARKED CAR
David Robinson, 1091 Joan Crescent, escaped serious injury in a third week-end accident. Police said he was the driver of a car which struck a parked car in the 3100 block of Quadra Street, pushing it approximately 70 feet, at 10.30 Saturday night. Both cars were badly smashed and Robinson suffered cuts on his face and hands as well as numerous bruises.

Owner of the parked car was reported to be Robert Stevens, 932 Darwin Street.

A lamp standard was broken off at Humbolt and Government Streets in a fourth accident. It occurred at 1 Sunday afternoon, police said, when a woman driver parked her car to mail a letter at the Post Office. After getting out of the car, it rolled forward, smashing into the light post.

Economic Setback
Looms But Not Like
Last Depression

If there is going to be another economic depression it will not be as bad as the last one, said W. C. More, general manager of the Imperial Bank, who is in Victoria today.

Saying there was bound to be an economic setback as soon as "supply caught up with demand," Mr. More said "I certainly believe we will have to adjust ourselves to new values with regard to wages and salaries."

"At the moment the white collar men and the man with a permanent income is suffering," he said, "while the working man and farmer are earning more than they ever have before."

Mr. More said any economic setback in the future would not be as bad as in former years because of the establishment of a world bank and the Bretton Wood's agreement which were inaugurated to prevent the recurrence of world wide depression.

BUSINESS GOOD

Business was good throughout Canada, Mr. More said, but labor unrest was hampering the production of materials. He also said that western farmers had an exceptional good crop this summer, one of the best in years.

Mr. More said people were still saving, and saving accounts were growing steadily. He also pointed out there was a greater demand for loans, which meant that government expenditures were decreasing and the general public increasing.

The economic development of British Columbia would depend on a much larger increase in population and the development of trade with China, Mr. More said. He said the only answer to a larger increase in population was immigration.

"There is plenty of room in Canada for immigrants," he said. "A larger population would do a lot in developing this country."

He predicted a large trade with China and said this would contribute a lot to the development and expansion of this province.

Mr. More is accompanied by his wife and will be returning to Toronto in two days. He is visiting Victoria in connection with the remodeling of the Imperial Bank at the corner of Yates and Government Streets.

Victoria section of the B.C. Historical Association will open its fall season tonight at 8.30, in the Provincial Library. An address will be delivered by Dr. T. A. Rickard, entitled "The Sea Otter in History." A number of paintings lately acquired by the Provincial Archives will be on display.

Seamen's Institute In City Praised By Lord Inverclyde

Here on behalf of the 128-year-old British Sailors' Society, Lord Inverclyde, director, and Rev. William Martin, organizing secretary of the Scottish committee, today inspected the Com-naught Seamen's Institute, at 106 Superior Street, and found it "compared favorably with any in Great Britain."

Accompanying Lord Inverclyde and Mr. Martin on their Canadian tour are Capt. C. S. Wright, secretary of the Dominion council of the society, and Col. E. A. Baker, member of the council and managing director of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

The society now has 80 hostels in Great Britain and there are 10 more to be incorporated soon, according to Mr. Martin. There are 150 hostels throughout the world, situated in principal sea ports.

Many hostels on the continent were razed during the war, but Rotterdam and Antwerp again have hostels functioning. Antwerp's refunctioning hostel is now the best on the continent, Mr. Martin said. There was once a hostel at Nagasaki, Japan, he said, but he did not know what had happened to it during the war.

WELFARE FACILITIES

The society wants to increase its welfare facilities, Lord Inverclyde said, and the tour was being made to discover what was most needed by the seamen.

Standards of facilities offered seamen by voluntary organizations were now up 50 per cent, he said.

Mr. Martin felt the fact that Great Britain had had no seamen's strike in more than 30 years, was indicative of the improved conditions being enjoyed by the seamen.

Lord Inverclyde spoke of the satisfactory progress of the seamen's liaison committee which has been set up in Scotland. Comprised of representatives of the British Ministry of Transport, the seamen's union and volunteer societies, the committee has been so successful that it is likely to be adopted throughout all of Great Britain.

The committee does not confine its interest to seamen ashore and afloat, Mr. Martin said, but to all aspects of their life. He spoke of the work done with a seamen's hostel at Rosyth, Scotland, where facilities have been made available to look after the children of seamen when conditions make it difficult for them to stay at home for a period of time.

SEA-TRAINING SCHOOL

He also outlined activities of the society in aiding boys to go to sea. The society operated a sea-training school which fitted boys from 16 to 17 1/2 years to go to sea, either as ordinary seamen, or as apprentices.

In addition, the society also provided educational facilities to prepare a young seaman to write for his second mate's ticket if the seaman could not afford to pay for his own training for the examination.

Quite a number of seamen who were given this free training later sent money to the society to pay for it, Mr. Martin observed.

Lord Inverclyde mentioned the work of the society in connection with rescue work during the war. The society kept rescue ships supplied with clothing, equipment and medical supplies for rescued sailors.

Western Business
Scene One Of Best,
Says Bank President

The west presents one of the best business scenes in Canada this year with its above-average crop production and brisk trade, A. E. Arscott, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, said in Victoria today.

Mrs. Arscott, accompanied by James Stewart, assistant general manager, has reached Victoria after a trip from Manitoba to the B.C. coast.

"With favorable harvest conditions and with bumper yields in some major crops and livestock areas of other provinces, this country would have a total new food supply about 15 per cent above that of last year and one of the best in its history," Mr. Arscott said.

PURCHASING POWER HIGH

The purchasing power... the income from the available supply of agricultural products, less farm costs... would certainly be higher than during the past year and might, in the aggregate, rise to a record level, Mr. Arscott believed.

Canadian industry and its working forces would be in as favorable a position as agriculture if it were not for the serious labor trouble which had occurred in several major units, he said.

A year ago no country was in better shape for industrial reconversion as Canada and early last spring production of civilian goods was at a record peacetime level and half as large again as in 1939, he continued.

About the same time, general employment reached its postwar peak, with practically the full working population occupied. Wholesale trade in civilian goods increased throughout Canada by over 20 per cent, with the western provinces showing larger gains than other provincial areas, Mr. Arscott said.

He believed freedom from serious labor trouble would have permitted still greater advances along the economic line. "In that even, civilian goods of all classes, including farm equipment, would now be in much greater supply and employment and trade would of course have increased proportionately."

PRODUCTION LOW

"As matters stand now, however, industrial production, as a whole, is at the lowest ebb of the current year and many benefits of the former progressive reconversion efforts have been lost for the time being. While there have been some irreplaceable losses, we can yet reap most of the opportunities available to us, but only if industrial peace be firmly established," he said.

The greatest need at the moment was greater industrial production, not only to satisfy the requirements of the public but, also, to prevent runaway inflation, he said.

"Canada has the facilities for this needed production and could so add to them as to give her one of the best balanced and diversified economic systems in the world."

No Findings Yet On Plane Crash

An investigation of the crash of the B.C. Airlines Ltd. Waco aircraft in Esquimalt Harbor last Friday afternoon in which three U.S. businessmen were injured, is continuing, it was learned today.

Clifford Upson of the department of Transport, Vancouver, heads the investigators.

Conditions of the three passengers injured were reported at St. Joseph's Hospital today as follows:

James Hershfield, Detroit, was in fairly good condition. He is suffering from pneumonia as well as severe facial lacerations, chest injuries and a fractured nose. One of his lungs was filled with water when he was thrown from the plane.

E. D. Piera, Grosse Isle, Mich., was in good condition. He suffered head injuries including severe facial lacerations. His nose was badly smashed and cut.

Stability Needed Says Lord Bennett

LONDON (CP)—Viscount Bennett, speaking in the grounds of Lambeth Palace Saturday, told a gathering of voluntary savings workers that Britain is destined for disaster unless stability in industry and national life is maintained at least for the next 12 to 18 months.

Viscount Bennett, former Conservative Prime Minister of Canada, said: "We must not waver if we are to live. For the first time in the history of this great country, we no longer are a creditor nation. There was a time when all the world owed to us. Now it is the opposite."

The five Central American republics—Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua—celebrated their "separation" from Spain Sept. 15, marking a century and a quarter of independent political life. The five republics, with 200,770 square miles of territory and 8,590,384 inhabitants, almost equal the area of Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Mississippi and the population Greater New York. The Central American isthmus, lacking adequate port facilities and inland transportation, constitutes a virtual economic and political vacuum in the western hemisphere despite its great economic potentialities.

The Central American republics export considerable quantities of coffee, bananas, gold, chicle, hardwoods, cocoa and rubber, and rely largely on imports for their manufactured goods, including petroleum products, machinery, textiles and chemicals. During the war Central America was encouraged by the United States to produce many things formerly supplied from the Orient, such as rubber, cinchona (quinine), abaca fibre, and essential vegetable oils. The United States is their principal world client, both in exports and imports.

POLITICAL UPSETS. The economic development of Central America has been slow and has reflected years of political turmoil and uncertainties. The isthmus is an economic unit producing similar raw materials and displaying the same commercial needs. It is also a natural political unit. However, lack of adequate means of internal communication plus acute nationalisms has produced a complex political and economic quilt which has been justly called "the Balkans of the Americas."

Most Central Americans feel their republics should form a federation or should unite into a single nation. In spite of this wide-spread mass feeling for unity, all attempts at consolidation have failed. Francisco Morazan's Central American Federation lasted only from 1824 to 1825. New attempts at unity failed in 1849 and 1885. The "United States of Central America" was formed in 1898 and dissolved in 1899. A treaty of Central American unity was drawn up in 1921, but it was not ratified. New attempts at unity were made by President Juan Jose Arevalo of Guatemala in 1945, but no immediate results have been forthcoming.

These conditions have made Central America a focal point of political unrest. From April, 1944, to August, 1945, for example, there were six bloody revolutions followed by five changes of government in two countries—Guatemala and El Salvador; exiled revolutionists attempted to invade three—El Salvador, Nicaragua and Honduras; and the general state of turmoil has interfered with normal development throughout the area.

World War II has left Central America in a precarious economic situation—unfavorable trade balances, weakened currencies, low agricultural production (shipping restrictions held up exports), and widespread inflation. Central Americans are keenly aware of their problems, however, and their governments are making every effort to solve them.

NEW INDUSTRIES

With U.S. aid, new crops are being planted, new industries established, highways opened, sky lanes broadened. Industrial expansion in Central America includes such projects as new textile mills for El Salvador and Nicaragua, a cement plant and fish canneries for Costa Rica, new electrification projects for Guatemala and public building construction for Honduras.

The Inter-American Highway, which is slowly making its way through the Central American jungles, is opening new trade channels and helping to bring about some economic and political unity. Aware of this, Central American governments are already discussing the elimination of mutual trade barriers and passport restrictions, plus the creation of a united Central American foreign service.

Costa Rica and Guatemala enjoy truly democratic governments, while inhabitants of the other three countries are becoming more aware of the need for democratic formulae. And what may be more important, no revolutions or important political upheavals have occurred there in more than a year.

Peace Terms For Finland Too Harsh, Opinion Of Sweden

From Swedish Institute of Public Opinion

TORONTO—Peace terms for Finland as proposed at the Paris conference are too harsh, in the opinion of the people of Finland's western Scandinavian neighbor, Sweden.

A survey by the Swedish Gallup Poll finds that nearly seven in every 10 have an opinion about the Finnish treaty proposals, and that the majority consider them unfair because they are too hard.

Approximately four out of every 10 Swedes say they have made a personal effort to inform themselves about the provisions of the Finnish treaty. The vote of this so-called "informed" group is:

Think terms just, 19 per cent; think terms unjust, 66 per cent; no opinion, 15 per cent.

The Swedish public is disillusioned generally about the Paris peace conference. When asked: "Do you consider that the peace treaties discussed in Paris are apt to contribute to a lasting peace?" Swedes voted:

Yes, 17 per cent; no, 52 per cent; no opinion, 31 per cent.

Food Costs Here Double In 6 Years

An indication of the sharp rise in food prices in the Victoria area was given at a meeting of the Jubilee Hospital directors, Ald. H. M. Diggon, one of the city representatives, said today.

Since 1940 food prices on perishable foods have doubled, and in the case of fresh fruits trebled. It was shown in the sums of money spent by the hospital for food. In all instances the amount of food bought in the 1946 period was somewhat less than the amount bought in the 1940 period.

Meat that in 1940 cost $1,860 was purchased for $2,783 in 1946. Fish costs are more than four times what they were six years ago, being $834 now and $204 then.

Eggs have risen from $410 to $879; fresh vegetables from $471 to $924; fruit from $401 to $1,436, and milk from $778 to $1,184.

IN BRITISH COLUMBIA MOTORISTS CHANGE TO MOTOR OIL WITH "X" SAFETY FACTORS

Why today's war-worn motors need the vital protection of Shell X-100

Today's driving at pre-war pace brings a new danger to veteran cars—damage caused by failure of cheaper oils to give lasting protection.

That's why motorists are changing by thousands to Shell X-100... the different, amazingly more efficient lubricant with the special "X" SAFETY FACTORS.

Created by Shell Research for extreme driving conditions, Shell X-100 was developed in Shell's great laboratories out of the tough base stock used to protect war planes. It contains the "X" Safety Factors to give long lasting extra protection critically needed by worn motors.

Play safe with your motor. Drain and refill it today with this remarkable motor oil—Shell X-100! It costs a little more; but it's worth a lot more!

If you are one of the lucky few able to get a new car, you will be even more anxious to protect your motor's precision parts with the "X" Safety Factors of Shell X-100.

Argosies of Prosperity

SEVENTY-FIVE years ago when Confederation Life Association was founded, Canada's trade and commerce was a very small affair. Apart from lumber mills, factories were few and far between. Clothing, furniture and most domestic goods were imported from Great Britain. Department stores were a vision of the future. Export trade as we know it today hardly existed.

Canada is now a leader among the world's trading nations. Imports and exports ranked second only to the United States during the war years. In peace times Canada ranked fourth or fifth in total world trade. Canada is now the largest exporter of wheat and newsprint, lumber, fish, aluminum and nickel, and base metals. As Canada's trade expanded, Confederation Life Association, which was founded in 1871, kept pace with it and carried the benefits of life insurance to hundreds of thousands of people engaged in industrial, agricultural, mercantile and commercial pursuits. As Canada's export trade increased, Confederation Life also exported the security and stability of its policies to Great Britain, West Indies, Central and South America and the United States. Confederation Life Association is now an international institution, proudly serving succeeding generations of policyholders in many countries.
